LLOYD GEORGE, IN PRIVATE MEETINGS AT GENOA, TRIES TO SOLVE PROBLEMS

Discusses Reparations and Nonaggression Treaty With Germans and Is Expected to Call In Barthou on His Return From Paris.

HARD PULL FOR THREE WEEKS LIKELY

Russians Surprised at Some Parts of Memorandum and French and Belgian Opposition Strengthens Their Position.

By the Associated Press.
GENOA, May 5.—The economic conference today expects to end its deliberations on financial, economic and transport questions. The subcommittee on economics is expected to make its report to the full conference, which probably will approve it.

This will leave only political problems. The Russian question and the proposed nonaggression treaty are taxing the ingenuity of Prime Minister Lloyd George of Great Britain, but there is optimism today over their possible solution.

Patience is being shown by all the leading delegations and the conference apparently is facing a hard pull of at least three weeks. The neutrals and most of the allied delegations believe that Belgium's opposition to the terms of the proposed settlement with Russia will disappear in case France decides to give unreserved approval of the allied memorandum to the Soviet.

Conferences With Germans.
It is reported that M. Barthou, head of the French delegation, upon his return from Paris will join in the small conference with the Germans which Lloyd George is arranging. At yesterday's meeting with Chancellor Wirth and Foreign Minister Rathenau, Lloyd George is reported to have discussed his non-aggression pact, as well as the reparations payment due from Germany on May 31.

Many of the lesser members departed to the Russian delegation today, as virtually all the work requiring experts has been completed and only the delegates and a few assistants will remain to fight out the battle with the Powers, who has narrowed down to the issue over the nationalization of foreign-owned property in Russia.

The longer the Russians study the memorandum on Russian reconstruction, the less it seems to appeal to them. Rakovsky, Tchitcherin and Litvinoff have expressed surprise at some of the sections, and the divergence between the allies caused by France and Belgium holding out on Article VI has greatly strengthened the Russian position.
It is expected that the Russians will reply to the memorandum tomorrow; meanwhile, they are using their advantage skillfully. Their experts are digesting the various sections at Santa Margherita.

Patience.
None of the American oil towns ever had greater oil excitement than Genoa has had over the rumors that various oil agreements have been entered into by the Bolshevik delegation.

Raku has been literally moved to Genoa and Azerbaijan has been put on the map for diplomats who formerly had been passing time in public on the Caspian sea.

The Russian delegation has denied that it made any contract for the sale of its output. Everybody from
M. Tchitcherine to the Russian delegation of all contracts. Colonel J.
W. Boyle, a Canadian officer who represents the Royal Dutch and Shell companies here, who are reported to have signed contracts with the Soviets, has issued repeated denials from his sick bed here.

The British Government also has denied that contracts have been made with its knowledge, but the French correspondents will accept no denials, and are describing "the alleged treachery," which is supposed to have given the British control of the Caucasian output. It was expected that oil would be the greatest prize which the Russians could offer at Genoa; consequently there is wild talk of oil, rumors, and the air is full of them.

M. Rakovsky made a statement yesterday relative to the Russian oil output, which shows that the monthly production of the Russian oil fields in 1912, and was nearly 23-000,000 pounds monthly in 1922 (a pound is 16 ounces). He pointed out that this oil industry has suffered less than any other in the Russian collapse.

M. Krasin, although denying the completion of any sales or development agreements, frankly states that he is negotiating with oil companies in many countries.

Mrs. Campbell van Heel to Spend Honeymoon in Little Cottage in Holland
"My Wife Will Be Happy There, Away From All This," Husband Says, at Palatial Westmoreland Place Residence.

A little Dutch cottage in the suburbs of Amsterdam will house Mrs.
Florence A. Campbell van Heel, 65 years old, and her husband, Henry Klaus van Heel, 32, on their forthcoming honeymoon visit to the husband's native country, Holland.

The young husband told of his plans for the visit to Holland, in a talk with a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday afternoon in the garden of the palatial Campbell residence at 2 Westmoreland place. The bride inherited the life use of this mansion, and of the Campbell summer home in Greenwich, Conn., with one-half the income of a $20,000,000 estate, from her husband, James Campbell, public utility magnate who died in 1914. Mrs. Campbell's recent marriage to Van Heel in San Diego, Cal., became known after their arrival in St. Louis Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Van Heel listened while her husband expounded his philosophy as to wealth and its worries and the unimportance of a few years' difference in age when the heart is young.

"Will Be Happy in Cottage."
"My little house in Holland is in the care of a housekeeper now," the husband said. "It is a little place—just a shack, perhaps you would call it—but the surroundings are picturesque, and you can see the glistering pots and skillets hanging outside the homes in the neighborhood."

"We will be happy there, without all these things, and he indicated that he had no more to say on the subject. "We don't need all this to make us happy. The more you have, the more worry it brings."

"The bride, listening to this description, was not quite sure that she would care for a very long stay in the little Dutch cottage, and said
so. "You know," she explained, "I have always been used to a large place."

But Van Heel's optimism as to the honeymoon prospect was not shaken.
He is fair-haired and rosy-cheeked, with a mustache of the hue sometimes described as "pink." He has the appearance of a college youth, and in speaking of himself and a friend he said "another boy and I."

"We will grow younger."
"I am sure," he went on, "that my wife, through her association with me, will grow younger. I have grown younger in her habits and feelings. That is what I have promised her. I told her she should not come back here and live in this great house, but that she should come with me to Holland."

"Difference in age matters very little. The attraction is the thing.
My wife attracted me by her personality and her wide knowledge.
She has had many opportunities to marry, both in the United States and other countries. But my observation is that American girls are shallow, though this is not true of Southern girls. But for four years I have known her, and I have never seen her except Australia, but she is not familiar with it."

"Yes," the bride assented. "I have crossed the ocean 40 times."

Wife's Story of Acquaintance.
Mrs. Van Heel then told of the acquaintance, and of her success in winning the marriage secret until her return here. "It is understood that not even her daughter, Mrs. Elsie G. Burkham, learned of it until the arrival of the bridal pair."

"Only one woman in St. Louis knew of the marriage," Mrs. Van Heel said, "and she did not tell anyone. That was Mrs. Adolphus Busch."
"Henry and I met two years ago at Mrs. Busch's California home."

Mrs. Van Heel continued, "There was a mutual attraction then, but I didn't think that Henry loved me."
"He loved me," she said, "and I loved him. He was a young man, and I was a young woman, and we were both very young."

"He was a young man, and I was a young woman, and we were both very young. He was a young man, and I was a young woman, and we were both very young."

Idaho Member Tells Senate
He Believes Semenoff Is in U. S. to Raise Fund for a Revolution.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 5.—Asserting that Boris Bakhmeteff, the last Ambassador of a Russian Government to come to the United States, never had presented to the State Department credentials "properly accrediting" him as the Russian Ambassador, Senator Borah, Republican of Idaho, charged in the Senate yesterday that M. Bakhmeteff had used a part of the $187,000,000 loaned by the United States to the Kerensky Government of Russia, and had invested it in New York and Chicago. Borah, likewise, criticized and protested against a continuation of the policy of accrediting to M.
Bakhmeteff the privileges and immunities of a diplomat.

The Idaho Senator also attacked
Gen. Semenov, a Russian and Bolshevick leader whose presence in this country the Senate Labor Committee has been investigating. Borah expressed the fear that the General was here to obtain funds to promote a new revolution in Russia and described him as responsible for crimes, the brutality of which "has never been equalled in the history of the world."

Regarding the charge that M.
Bakhmeteff had not turned over all of the American loan to the Kerensky Government, Borah declared that a priest of the Greek Church was ready to testify before the Labor Committee as to the investment of some of the funds in New York and Chicago.

The information which Borah had, he said, was to the effect that the property was in the hands of a holding company which was organized by M. Bakhmeteff for the purpose of investing the funds in New York and Chicago.

MOTHER ASKS POLICE TO FIND
GIRL, 18, LAST SEEN WITH MAN

Gertrude Marshall, Who Disappeared April 23, Was to Have Gone to Aunt in Chicago

Mrs. Lulu Marshall of 1233 South
Broadway has requested the St.
Louis and Chicago police to search for her daughter, Gertrude E. Marshall, 18 years old, a telephone operator, who disappeared April 23. She was to have gone to Chicago to visit an aunt, but has not arrived there.

According to the St. Louis police, she was last seen by a friend boarding a street car in company with a young man, who, the friend said, had represented himself as living in Chicago and being "in to a large sum of money."

At the time of her disappearance
Miss Marshall wore a tan coat over a blue silk dress, and carried a blue silk umbrella and a canteen. She had curly bobbed hair.

PLAINTIFF IN ALIENATION SUIT
OBTAINS JUDGMENT FOR $1000

Action Was Brought by Michael J.
Cleary Against Rudolph Heitz,
Furniture Dealer

A judgment for $1000 damages was awarded today to Michael J. Cleary of 804 South Eighteenth street, in his suit against Rudolph Heitz of 1218 South Broadway, on a charge of alienation of affection. Cleary is the former wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Cleary. The jury considered the case for an hour yesterday afternoon and two hours this morning. The suit was for $25,000 damages.

Cleary, who is 64 years old, was charged that Heitz, who is proprietor of a furniture store, was unduly attentive to Mrs. Cleary, and influenced her against Cleary. Mrs.
Cleary's son and two daughters testified for the defense, and Mrs. Cleary said, in her testimony, that excessive drinking on Cleary's part caused the trouble. This was denied by some of Cleary's friends, who testified that Cleary was sober and that he had never seen Cleary intoxicated.

THIRD OF FOUR ARRESTED FOR AUTO THEFT IS SENTENCED

Sylvester Jackson Receives Four Months' Term—Has Been in Jail
Five Months

Sylvester Jackson, 22 years old, of Casey, Ill., was sentenced to four months in the St. Charles County Jail by Federal Judge Paris this morning when he pleaded guilty of stealing an automobile in Casey, Ill., last December, and bringing it to St.
Louis. Because he was unable to provide bond he was held in the St.
Louis jail for five months before his trial.

Jackson is the third man of the four arrested for the theft to be sentenced. Alva Toelle receiving a sentence of one year and a day, the penitentiary, and Herman Ramsey six months in jail. Jackson and Albert Matthews, the fourth man, pleaded not guilty in Judge Paris' court this morning. Judge Paris said he was lenient because of Jackson's youth.

Withdrawal of Goldstein Nomination May Be Urged

The Senate any information about Goldstein that it cared to have.

That being the case, Harrison thought that the Senator from Missouri should be glad to have the appointment. The President saw the matter in another light. Goldstein had the recommendation of Spencer and had, moreover, a really impressive list of endorsements from city and State politicians and St. Louis lawyers, judges and business men.
"The President made the nomination with his eyes open, and fully aware that it would cause criticism," and maybe, he said, "some of the best of Goldstein was not as has been suggested by some commentators, 'slipped over' by Spencer."

Attitude of La Follette.
La Follette said today that he was very little interested in patronage matters, having plenty of disagreements with the administration on larger issues to keep him busy. He said that he had started out the door of the committee room and didn't even hear the name when Watson, at the end of the Finance Committee meeting, said there was a nomination to be confirmed. As soon, however, as he learned that Goldstein was one of those involved in the Sweden campaign fund scandal, he entered his protest against the appointment, in order to keep his record clear. He did not intend, he said, further to fight the nomination.

"I do not make any charge," countered Harrison. "This is a matter of fact. Goldstein said he got the $2500 and placed it in the bank to his credit in order to create Low-den sentiment in Missouri."

"I was under the impression that the article was put in at the instigation of the Senator from Mississippi," said Spencer.

"Yes," replied Harrison, "for the information of the Senator and the Senate and the country."

That closed the discussion of Goldstein at yesterday's session of the Senate.

Article Read in House Also.
In the House Representative Oldfield of Arkansas read the same article into the record. "Every time you appoint a new officerholder you put your foot in your mouth." Oldfield twitted the Republicans. "The more fellows like that you appoint, the more you put your foot in your mouth and appoint all you want."

The House got a laugh out of Old-field's remarks.

Even if the Goldstein squabble does not rise to the dignity of an article like the Newberry case, it is already causing the Republicans some decidedly unpleasant moments.
The Democrats, naturally, will make all of the political capital possible out of it.

Not only will the Democrats, headed by their principal wharphooper, Pat Harrison of Mississippi, call pointed attention to the $2500 episode, but they will also point out the pages during the Chicago National convention, but they will have something to say about the attempt of the Old Guard yesterday to railroad the nomination through the Senate.

ported that Chang Tso-Lin's army was forced to retire. Pekin's walls guarded. Pekin last night slept behind guarded walls. The gates were closed and barred, and patrols of soldiers paced to and fro all night with fixed bayonets. Only persons bound on official business were permitted to enter.

Last night Wu's forces camped unmolested outside the city gates, while Chang's soldiers were scattered, having retired with the main body down the railroad toward Tientsin or dispersed in unorganized mobs over the hills. The routed army left behind artillery, munitions, horses and loaded camels, and its wounded and dead. The total casualties in the day's fighting are believed to have reached from 5000 to 7000 dead and wounded.

"The Christian General" thanked. Gen. Wu attributes much of his success to the initiative of Feng Yih-Siang, "the Christian General," who commanded the operations which resulted in the retreat eastward of Chang's army. Wu declares he will continue to fight until Chang has been driven back to Mukden, of which he is Military Governor.

Two thousand of Chang Tso-Lin's soldiers permanently kept in Pekin were disarmed under orders from Wu Pei-Fu. This is regarded as eliminating Chang Tso-Lin's authority in the capital.

Outside the walls some of Chang's Manchurian soldiers refused to surrender, and were fired upon. Sixteen hundred of these troops were captured in one place.

Missionary Says Wu Is Fighting Against Japanese Influence. CHICAGO, May 5.—The Rev. W. T. Hobart, dean of the Theological School of Pekin, China, explained the strange mixup in China in the course of an address here.

"The struggle going on in China between Gen. Chang Tso-Lin, the Manchurian war lord, and Gen. Wu Pei-Fu is a part of the fight against Japanese influence in China," he said.

"General Wu was the leader who in response to the uprising of the students three years ago overthrew the Anfu party, which was receiving pay from Japanese sources for concessions and pocketing the money. Now the Anfu party is trying to get back into power and is aided by Gen. Chang. My sympathies are with Gen. Wu, and I think the sympathies of the people in general are with him, for the people of China are anti-Japanese. Gen. Wu has the better trained army."

By the Associated Press. The struggle between General Chang Tso-Lin and Wu Pei-Fu, which has reached its climax in the present campaign, was foreshadowed in Associated Press dispatches in September, 1921, when it was outlined as a battle between militarism in China under the leadership of Chang, the most powerful military Governor of the republic, and liberalism, with Wu as its standard bearer.

By the personality, the men are exact opposites, while their present relative positions form an outstanding paradox in Chinese political history. Chang, regarded as the war lord and advocate of a military hegemony, sprang from the people, is uneducated and gained his dominating position through force of character and personal bravery. Wu came from the upper classes, distinguished himself in his military education in the Kailin military academy near Tientsin, where he graduated with honors.

Chang fought under the Mikado's banner in the Russo-Japanese war, and is a leader of a Chinese "Hunghut-su," or guerrilla force. At the close of the campaign he passed into the Chinese Government service and became so strong as a military leader Northern China.

HOMICIDE VERDICT IN CASE OF MAN, 60, KILLED BY SPEEDER

Driver Whose Car Hit John Kelly Was Going More Than 30 Miles an Hour, Witness Testifies.

MACHINE SPED ON AFTER ACCIDENT

Shouts to Stop Were Not Heeded, According to Testimony — $100 Reward Posted for Motorist.

A coroner's verdict of homicide was returned today in the case of John Kelly, 60 years old, a widower, of 320 Governor street. Kelly died at the city hospital at 9:30 p. m. Sunday from a fractured skull, fractured ribs and internal injuries suffered two hours earlier at Broadway and Angel street.

Kelly, who was on his way to visit his daughter at 4023 North Ninth street, was killed at 10:30 a. m. Sunday by a Ford car and was crossing to the west side of Broadway when the automobile, southbound, hit him and knocked him about 30 feet.

John C. Diesel, 4227 North Broadway, who saw the accident, said that the coupe was going at more than 30 miles an hour and that he shouted to the driver to stop, but that the latter continued south on Broadway without even reducing speed. A few minutes later Diesel halted an automobile going north on Broadway and asked the driver to trail the automobile that had hit Kelly. He described it as a Ford car and the man to whom he spoke followed several automobiles that were southbound. He later returned with a license number that proved to have been issued for a touring car and Everett Clark, 4211 North Second street, and Mrs. Margaret Werges, 4046 North Broadway, who also witnessed the accident, testified that the coupe was going at great speed and that it was occupied by a man and woman.

Policemen at the inquest reported that they had been unable to trace the coupe or its occupants, and that detectives were still investigating the case.

DIVORCE SEEKER ARRESTED ON COMPLAINT OF WOMEN

Salesman Obtained Money From Them and Gave Promise to Wed, Complainants Allege.

Russell C. Hetherington, 30 years old, a salesman of electrical supplies, of 3131 Washington avenue, was arrested yesterday as he was leaving the Court of Domestic Relations, where he was seeking a divorce, on complaint of two women that he had obtained money from them and had promised to marry them.

Miss Myrtle Gaskin, 23, also of 3131 Washington avenue, says Hetherington got $200 from her and lived with her as her husband at O'Fallon, Mo., from Jan. 1 to March 23, Hetherington admits that he lived with her, but denies obtaining the $200.

The $100 he is alleged to have obtained from Miss Bessie Moore of Walnut Ridge, Ark., he says was merely a personal loan that he has not been able to repay. He told police that he had also promised to marry her. An attempt will be made to hold Hetherington under the Mann act and also on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

He has been separated from his wife, whom he married when he was 15 years old.

MORE ALIBI WITNESSES FOR DUPO SUSPECTS

34 Testify for Them Yesterday — Accused Men May Go on Stand Today.

The five men accused of robbing the Dupo State Bank at Dupo, Ill., of $11,343 on Dec. 23, are expected to take the stand in their own behalf today. Thirty-eight witnesses testified yesterday for the defense in the effort to prove alibis for the men, and more are to be called today. It is believed the case will go to the jury tomorrow.

Testimony of 14 witnesses was given yesterday to show that Roy Damon, one of the men on trial, was in St. Louis from 10 p. m. to 6 p. m. the day of the bank holdup. The robbery took place about 2 p. m.

Persons testifying for Damon included Policemen Edward A. Schoen and Albert Ulrich of St. Louis and Charles Dieckman, a former Deputy Sheriff of St. Louis County, all of whom told of seeing Damon at work during the day in a clothes-dressing establishment. Edgar A. Heine, a hat salesman, told of seeing Damon at a hat between 12:20 and 2 p. m. on a Christmas present order from Damon's employer.

Twenty-Four Witnesses Yesterday. Eight persons testified that Claude Bernero was at work all day at an East St. Louis garage, where he was having mechanics assist him with his automobile, on the day he is alleged to have participated in the robbery.

Alibi witnesses for Leo Hildebrandt, Peter McCann and Melvin Cramer, the other accused men, numbered 16. They told of seeing the men in an East St. Louis lunch room from about 11 a. m. to 3 p. m. on Dec. 23. The proprietor of the place testified that Hildebrandt prepared and served a special chicken dinner for his customers during that time.

Attempts were made by the State to show that some of the witnesses for Hildebrandt, Cramer and McCann were bookmakers at the Greyhound racing track at East St. Louis last summer and had had the three men as their patrons. Edward Court of St. Louis admitted he had made a book at the track and knew the men in this connection.

L. M. Lucier, 723 North Tenth street, East St. Louis, refused to answer when asked if he had been a bookmaker, had accepted bets from the men.

DAUGHERTY'S PART IN PARDONING OF MORSE

Letters From Taft and Wickersham, Saying He Used No Improper Influence, Read in Senate.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, May 5.—Discussion of Attorney-General Daugherty's connection with the pardoning of Charles W. Morse, New York shipbuilder, from the Atlanta prison, was renewed once again in the Senate today with Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, challenging that Daugherty "disclose the facts and expose the people" to whom reference was made by the Attorney-General in a statement yesterday.

Senator Willis, Republican, Ohio, thereupon put into the Record letters from Taft and former Attorney-General Wickersham denying that Daugherty had influenced their action in the case.

Both letters were written in November, 1915, when Daugherty was a candidate for the Senate in Ohio. Chief Justice Taft, who was President when Morse was pardoned, said in his letter that he desired to "say that in no way did you (Daugherty) influence me in respect to the application for the pardon of Charles W. Morse."

Wickersham wrote to Daugherty that "all you did in that matter (the Morse pardon) was to bring the subject in a perfectly straightforward way, as an attorney should, before the Attorney-General."

Morse Says Poor Health Was Cause of His Being Released. By the Associated Press. BATH, Me., May 5.—In a telegram sent from his home here last night to Senator Caraway, Democrat, of Arkansas, Charles W. Morse declared that his release from Atlanta was due entirely to his physical condition.

"If the press has correctly quoted you you have been misinformed regarding my physical condition at Atlanta and at the present time. The commutation of my sentence was based wholly on my physical condition as represented to President Taft and Attorney-General Wickersham by four nurses from the Walter Reed hospital, under whose surveillance I was for two months at Fort McPherson, and four physicians, I think from the Surgeon-General's office in Washington, whose names I never knew and from whom I never heard, directly or indirectly, before or since."

DIVORCE SET ASIDE; MAN HAD REMARRIED

First Wife of Charles Shaver, Really Dealer, Alleges She Didn't Know of Suit.

A divorce granted to Charles W. Shaver of 15 Dartford avenue, Hillcrest, St. Louis County, in Kansas City, Feb. 23, 1918, was set aside Monday by Circuit Judge Wurdeman at Clayton and Shaver was informed that his former wife, Mrs. Mattie O. Shaver, was restored to her rights as his wife.

After the divorce, which was granted on the grounds of desertion, Shaver married Dr. Nellie Ables of Moline, Ill., and has since resided with her at Hillcrest. The former Mrs. Shaver was a school teacher in Burlington, Ia. The divorce was set aside on the ground that Shaver had failed to establish a legal residence in Kansas City when his petition was filed.

Mrs. Mattie Shaver alleged also that Shaver deserted her and that he persuaded court officials that personal service could not be had on her and that therefore the only notice was by publication, which she did not see. She declared that when he was claiming to be a resident of Kansas City he was living at Moline, Ill., and was engaged to Mrs. Ables.

Shaver, in his answer to the petition for annulment of the divorce, set up that he had been married again and that if the decree was set aside he would be greatly inconvenienced.

Shaver is a real estate dealer and has an office downtown.

GOMPERS SAYS UNTERMYER PLAN FOR LABOR IS NOT FEASIBLE

Tells Lockwood Committee Labor's Internal Dissensions Can't be Legislated Out of Existence.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 3.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, told the Lockwood Committee yesterday that labor abuses, dissensions, interruption of service and jurisdictional controversies within the ranks of organized labor could not be legislated out of existence as proposed by Samuel Untermyer. "It is impossible to fix the status of labor by law," he testified.

Gompers' testimony was sought. Untermyer explained at the opening of the session to learn whether the American Federation of Labor had the power or the willingness to halt labor practices which, he said, had become "oppressive, tyrannical and unreasonable."

FARMER AGITATION IN DENMARK

COPENHAGEN, April 16.—Protection of the interests of the farmer has become an important issue in the Danish Parliament. On the one hand the Government is being criticized by the trade unionists and some other political organizations on the ground that the Government is treating the farmers too paternally. On the other hand, the Danish Farmers' Association, a greater economy in Government affairs, it is pointed out that the Danish state railways—and nearly all of the railways in Denmark—are owned by the Government—show a net loss for the last month of $3,486,000 kroner (about $7,880,000 at current rates of exchange).

SENATOR FRANCE NOT OPEN TO PROSECUTION, DAUGHERTY SAYS

Request to Genoa That America Be Invited to Join Not Violation of Law.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 5.—The action of Senator France, Republican of Maryland, in calling the Genoa conference and urging that it invite American participation fails to fall within the application of criminal statutes, Attorney-General Daugherty declares in a letter to Miss Mary Kilbreth, of the Woman's Patriot Publishing Co. of this city, in which he declined to institute criminal prosecution of the Maryland Senator, as Miss Kilbreth had requested. The letter, made public by Senator Welles, Republican, Maryland, declared there was doubt as to the construction of the statute covering correspondence with foreign governments and that Senator France "must be given the benefit of the doubt." The statute, section five of the criminal code, which the Attorney-General said never had been construed by a court, requires that correspondence between an American citizen and a foreign government must show an intent to influence the conduct or action of that government, to apply to any case. "In my judgment," the Attorney-General wrote, "the acts of Senator France do not fulfill the conditions stated as necessary to the application of the statute. It is not clear that the acts in question constitute either the commencement of the carrying on of correspondence or intercourse. They merely invite a public act by the conference at Genoa, which would request this country to participate in its deliberations."

HIGDON HEEDS WILSON ADVICE

Decides Not to Be Opponent of Reed and Long for Senate.

John C. Higdon, a patent attorney, who received a letter from Woodrow Wilson advising him "not to complicate the contest in Missouri" by becoming a candidate for United States Senator against Senator Reed and Breckinridge Long, yesterday wrote the former President that he would accept the advice and would not file for the primary election. Higdon was defeated by Long in the last senatorial primary.

NURSE CONVICTED OF KILLING MRS. EASTLAKE

Miss Sarah E. Knox Sentenced to Serve 20 Years in Virginia Penitentiary.

By the Associated Press.

MONTROSE, Va., May 5.—A verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree was returned by a jury in Westmoreland County Court here last night against Miss Sarah E. Knox, Baltimore nurse, charged with the killing of Mrs. Margaret L. Eastlake at Colonial Beach last September. The jury stipulated that the verdict should carry a sentence of 20 years imprisonment in the State penitentiary. The verdict was reached after one hour and 35 minutes' deliberation.

The courtroom was crowded as Miss Knox was brought from the jail to face the jury. The nurse stood erect as sentence was announced, and displayed no emotion. She turned to her sister, Mrs. W. L. Salter of Ocean City, N. J., however, and said a few words. Judge Chinn then formally sentenced her and said he thought the jury had been "most lenient" with her. No steps were taken by defense counsel toward filing an appeal and Judge Chinn adjourned court, while Miss Knox was taken back to jail. She will be taken to Richmond to begin serving sentence.

"HOCH" SHOCK TROOPS OF TOURISTS MOVE ON ENGLAND

Thirsty Americans Flock to London Bars Where Aged Liquor Is to Be Had.

(Copyright, 1922.)
LONDON, May 5.—Judging by the amount of "hoch" being consumed here by the vanguard of America's tourist army of 1922, the shock troops have arrived with a keen thirst and are digging in where "hoch" is best and oldest. As a considerable amount of pre-war material of high velocity is easily obtainable, there is a daily casualty list.

While Lord and Lady Astor are studying the beneficial effects of prohibition in America, these thirsty Americans are showing the Britons that parched throats still exist across the ocean.

Practically all the popular bars in the hotels and restaurants have imported champion cocktail mixers from New York, some of whom receive high wages.

There is a loud outcry in England because the Chancellor of the Exchequer did not cut down the price of beer by reducing the tax and some of the members of the House of Commons say that as a consequence they are afraid to face their constituents. To head off any dry movement, several organizations are working for brighter "pubs" like the continental cafes, where there can be no "soaking."

Foreign money markets are crippled— export business is deranged—these ultra-made, high-grade Autopianos must be sold at home

for People of Foreign Lands to Buy American Goods*

THIS is a practical demonstration of the difference in buying power of money. It indicates the relative value of foreign coinage as compared to our own. This shrinkage in currency values in foreign countries has put a stop to the shipment of goods abroad, and compelled The Autopiano Company to make an enforced clearance of hundreds of player-pianos specially made for the export trade.

The column on the left shows the amount required for this purchase in the coinage of various foreign nations. Since it requires the equivalent of $585 in good American money (even at these greatly reduced sale prices) to buy an Autopiano, you can readily understand the foreigner's inability to buy with his deflated currency.

You should know further that The Autopiano Company of New York is one of the foremost exporters of pianos in the United States, having an international reputation as pioneer producers of player-pianos of the highest artistic character and musical merit. The Autopiano is a popular instrument in capitals of Europe and the Orient.

For years it has been the custom of this company to build specially made player-pianos specifically adapted to meet an increasingly large foreign demand. The economic condition explained, existing since the world war, practically destroys all export trade and leaves The Autopiano Company with a surplus of superfine instruments that must be sold regardless of price. Hence this sale.

Table Showing Difference in Cost

This table shows the relative value of 595 good American dollars in various foreign countries—before the war and since.

Before the War

In Russia, 1,158 Rubles
In Austria, 2,931 Crowns
In Italy, 3,082 Lire
In Greece, 3,082 Drachmas
In Belgium, 3,082 Francs

Since the War

104,956 Rubles
228,618 Crowns
17,875 Lire
8,013 Drachmas
9,246 Francs

This is why there are no Autopianos shipped abroad today. The foreign people simply cannot pay.

The Autopiano—A Royal Instrument

Let us make it very plain—these "Export" Autopianos, the ones displayed here, are the first genuine "foreigners" ever shown in St. Louis. They differ in many important details from regular orthodox "domestic" models. They have all the "earmarks" required by the foreign trade—the de luxe cases, the waterproofed hammers and bolted pin blocks, necessary as precautionary measures for foreign shipments. You will see here exact duplicates of the Autopianos owned by the Pope, by Cardinal Mercier, the Queen of the Belgians, and the King of Spain.

Ten Dollars is all you need pay—Now

Imagine! You can buy one of these "titled and crested" Export Autopianos on an easy payment plan with the money that usually slips through your fingers. You may pay as little as Ten Dollars deposit, or you may have as long as Three Years to complete your payments, if you choose. Ten dollars down and three years' time—be sure you get that! Then you will own a player-piano which ordinarily could not be bought here—at any price! Think it over—and come Tomorrow.

NOTE—The prices quoted in this sale are GUARANTEED to be the lowest EVER OFFERED in St. Louis for the De Luxe Model Autopianos.

ARRESTS IN LIQUOR RAIDS
Fred Landherr, 66 years old, proprietor of a confectionary store at 1660 South Jefferson avenue, was arrested yesterday when police reported searching the place and finding a bottle of so-called corn whiskey in a sink, a half-pint bottle of the same sort of liquor in a soda water case under the counter in the store, four quart bottles of the same and 3 quarts of kummel in the basement. Prohibition enforcement agents arrested Charles Schwieler, proprietor of a saloon at Jefferson avenue and Cherokee street, and three men found in the place yesterday, when they reported they found 86 cans of malt, 6 bags of hops, 42 cans of hops, two bottle cappers, 4 bags of caps and two and a half gallons of so-called whiskey.

"OFFER" BY ALDERMAN TO PASS BILLS REPORTED

Alice Trying to Identify Member Said to Have Visited Manufacturers' Railway Official.
President Aloe of the Board of Aldermen, who is acting Mayor, said today that he did not know if an official investigation would be suggested or requested in connection with the report that an unnamed Alderman had visited an official of the Manufacturers' Railway last week and directly or by inference said that he could get a franchise compromise bill through the board for the railway, for a consideration. He declined to comment on the situation.

The story at the city hall is that an Alderman, whose name has not been learned, and as to whose identity speculation is meager, went to Arthur E. Wright, superintendent of the Manufacturers' Railway, which belongs to the Busch Brewery interests, and said that for $15,000 he could control the votes of 15 Aldermen and put some bills desired by the railway, and which had died with the last session of the Board of Aldermen, through the session. The board has 28 members besides the President, who has a vote. He was told that the railway didn't do business that way and departed. As some tell the story, the Alderman didn't name a price, and didn't even come out directly for remuneration. Wright happened to tell Alderman Nangle of the Twenty-fifth Ward, a member of the Public Utilities Committee, which had considered the compromise, about this visit. Nangle told Aloe and as a result Aloe and five of the seven members of the committee visited Wright last Tuesday and demanded the Alderman's name. It was not revealed to them, although Wright told them he knew the man and that he was not a member of the Public Utilities Committee. Aldermen today expressed doubt that any of their number could control 15 votes on this or any other question. They also doubted that an investigation of this situation would do any good. The compromise proposal was for the payment of $25,000 by the Manufacturers' Railway in settlement of some old, contested claims of the city, to obtain the abrogation of an ordinance requiring $10,000 annual payment to the city by the railway, and permission to extend the tracks two blocks in the vicinity of the manufacturing and wholesale district around Second and Poplar streets, in response to urgent requests by the industries there.

DAVIS DUE HERE TOMORROW

Secretary of Labor Will Make Address During Visit.
Secretary James J. Davis of the Department of Labor, once a worker in the Niedringhaus steel plant here, will be in St. Louis tomorrow and Sunday and will speak on "The Nation's Most Vital Question" at a luncheon of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, at 6:15 p. m., tomorrow, at the Hotel Statler. Davis will be met at 5 p. m. tomorrow at the Union Station by a troop of Boy Scouts. He will be the guest of Clarence H. Howard of 5501 Chamberlain avenue, and Sunday morning will inspect the Commerce wealth steel plant and the Commonwealth Community House, where he will be a luncheon guest of officers of the company. He will speak at the Granite City Moose lodge, Sunday afternoon and will return for a reception at 4 p. m. at the David R. Francis home. He will go from the reception to the Moose lodge at 3830 Olive street.

Former Student Admits Robbery.
Richard Vasil Lack, 31, of Beaumont, Tex., admitted to the police today that he had stolen a number of platinum laboratory crucibles and tools from the chemistry department of the Rice Institute at Houston, Tex., where he formerly was a student. He was arrested yesterday afternoon when trying to dispose of some of them to a jeweler. In two weeks, he said, he had sold most of the loot in Chicago and St. Louis for a total of $351. He estimated that its real value was about $1000.

Thief Surprised in Home.
Mrs. Mary Silberberg of 1242 Elliot avenue, returning to her home from a grocery store in the neighborhood at 2 p. m. yesterday, encountered a negro in the front hallway. She asked his business in her home. "Foolish question," the negro replied, as he drew a revolver, and pointing it at Mrs. Silberberg.

If Kidneys and Bladder Bother

Start With Nature's Herbs and Roots to Flush Kidneys and Neutralize Acids
Help your kidneys—don't overtax them. Lighten your diet a little; eat less meat; drink lots of water and milk; avoid rich food.
Our blood is filled with uric acid and toxins which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; thus the pores close and create all sorts of distress, resulting in kidney trouble of various kinds, and eventually in Bright's Disease, Diabetes or Gravel. If you have the slightest pain in the kidney region don't neglect it or delay; flush your kidneys with this restorative so that they may retain their normal activity. Dr. Carey's PRESCRIPTION NO. 277, also neutralizes irritating acids, thus ending bladder weakness. Dr. Carey's PRESCRIPTION NO. 277 is inexpensive, harmless and is made from nature's herbs, roots and bark, and is recommended by doctors. It never disappoints, and has cured many cases of kidney and bladder trouble. Write for literature to Dr. Carey's Prescription Co., 1000 N. 1st St., St. Louis, Mo. and all druggists have Dr. Carey's PRESCRIPTION NO. 277. 3 MEN SLAIN WHEN POSSE FIGHTS GUNMEN

Two Others Wounded in Shooting That Follows Kidnaping of Policeman at Canton, O.

By the Associated Press.
CANTON, O., May 4.—Three men are dead and two others dying as the result of a revolver fight in a woods five miles north of here late yesterday between an armed posse and four gunmen, following the kidnaping of a motor cycle policeman who had arrested the men for speeding.

The gunmen, police say, had come here in a stolen automobile to assist in the release of "Oklahoma Slim" John Stevens, a member of their gang, who is in the local workhouse and who is said to be wanted in numerous Middle Western cities on charges of bank robbery.

The dead are: Ralph W. Haffee, Canton contractor, member of the posse; Eddie Stevenson, Cleveland gunman, and an unidentified gunman.

Harry Harper and George Brainer, the other gunmen, were shot through the head. Physicians said they could not survive the day. Two others of the posse were also shot.

When the men were arrested by Motor Cycle Patrolman John Wise, they forced him to enter their automobile and drove to the woods, where they bound, gagged and tied the officer to a tree.

J. G. Campbell, a telephone lineman, who witnessed the kidnaping, notified the police, then jumped into his automobile and followed the men. Several times he stopped, climbed a telephone pole, cut in on a wire with his testing apparatus, and notified the officers of the course of the fugitives.

As the officers neared the gunmen the latter opened fire and fled into the woods, where they were surrounded by the police and scores of citizens. When the fire from the gangsters stopped, the posse found all four sprawled on the ground. The unidentified man dead. Stevenson died later from his wounds.

LORD NORTHCLEFFE QUILTS NEWSPAPER ASSOCIATION

Directs Shafts at Capitalists "With No Newspaper Experience" Who Have Entered Field.

(Copyright, 1934.)
LONDON, May 4.—Lord Northcliffe has resigned from the Newspaper Proprietors' Association and his action has caused considerable stir in Fleet street. He gives as his chief reason:

"Capitalists have come into Fleet street who have made fortunes in other industries, with no experience of newspapers at all. It is unreasonable that they should take the part of dictating conditions to those who have been associated with newspapers and printers all their lives."

He objects to certain proposed reductions in wages apparently approved by the Newspaper Proprietors' Association, but says that if a sudden strike is attempted, he will join in the most drastic measure. He acknowledges the fine work done for the newspapers during the war by Lords Riddell and Burnham, but says conditions now are changed.

The most noted capitalists who have emerged as newspaper proprietors here have been Lord Beaverbrook as controller of the Daily Press and Sir Charles Skyles and Col. Grant Morden, both members of Parliament, as controllers of the Daily Chronicle; Sir John Letch, who recently bought the Pall Mall Gazette and the Globe, and Lord Cowdray, who controls the Westminster Gazette. Lord Beaverbrook has been connected with journalism from boyhood, so Northcliffe's shafts can hardly be directed at him.

NEGRO SWALLOWS THE EVIDENCE

Narcotic Agents Foiled by Suspect Who Admits Contents of Package.

When city detectives and Federal narcotic agents stopped Daniel Smith, a negro, of 519 South Third street, near Third and Poplar streets yesterday evening to search him for drugs, Smith swallowed a small package. He later admitted it contained a small quantity of narcotic drugs. He was locked up.

The agents at the time were on their way to investigate a place at 313 South Fourth street, where they had been told men congregated and visited continuously. Five men were arrested at the place, and in a coat tossed on a bed a package of narcotics was found, they reported.

ENGLAND MAY PASS LAW GOVERNING ANIMAL TRAINING Committee Recommends Ban on Tricks Involving Risks to Brutes.
LONDON, May 5.—There will be drastic restrictions in trained animal performances in Great Britain if Parliament approves recommendation in a forthcoming report of House of Commons committee which has been investigating for the last six months, it was stated today. The committee concluded cruelty was necessary in the training of animals, and will propose a ban on tricks involving serious risks to animals and without educational value. The proposed restrictions will apply particularly to the performances by the larger carnivora, such as lions, tigers and big apes, on the ground that these are dangerous. It will be recommended that animal trainers shall be registered and that the Government shall have greater power and facilities for investigating the actual training of animals.

DESIRE TO SEE CHILD LEADS TO ARREST

Albert Williams, Sought in Bank Robbery Case, Taken in Vicinity of Home.

Albert Williams, 37 years old, of 4320 North Eleventh street, was arrested near his home yesterday in connection with the robbery, Dec. 20, 1921, of the State Bank of Iuka, Ill. Williams, for whom the police had been looking for several months, was taken into custody when he went to the vicinity of his home, which he had not visited for weeks, to see his little son.

His arrest followed the confession of Alfred A. Oliver, convicted in the Federal Court here of complicity in the robbery of a mail car on a Missouri Pacific train at Tower Grove Station Aug. 18, 1920, and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary, that he had planned the Iuka "job" and had enlisted Williams and Ed and Lex Hall, brothers-in-law of Williams, to assist him.

Oliver's confession was made to Stephen A. Connell, operative in charge of the local office of the United States Secret Service Bureau, who had discovered that nearly $10,000 in Liberty Bonds disposed of by Oliver and Henry Wilks, a Terminal switchman, who has confessed complicity in the Missouri Pacific robbery, were stolen from the Iuka bank.

In his confession Oliver declared he did not participate in the actual robbery of the Iuka bank, although he planned and directed it. Williams, following his arrest, refused to talk and declared he did not know Oliver.

The discovery of Oliver's participation in the Iuka robbery was accidental and was made while Connell was assisting postoffice inspectors in checking up bonds disposed of by Oliver, Wilks and Aloys Weigers, which were thought to have been obtained by them in the Missouri Pacific holdup. Only $3500 in Liberty bonds was obtained by the robbers in the Missouri Pacific case, and Connell in his investigation found they had disposed of more than $12,000 in bonds. Checking the numbers of the bonds revealed that a majority of those in the possession of the men came from the Iuka bank.

REPARATIONS BOARD RESERVES RIGHT TO PROTECT ALLIED LIEN

Commission Fails to Find Violation in Russo-German Rapallo Treaty.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, May 5.—In a long note, communicated to the German Government last night, the Reparations Commission fails to find any immediate violation of the treaty of Versailles in the provisions of the Russo-German Rapallo treaty, but reserves to itself the right to examine closely the application of the treaty and take any action necessary to protect the allied lien on all German resources.

In unofficial circles there is considerable disappointment. The hope had been repeatedly expressed by the government press and elsewhere that the commission would find the Russo-German treaty a direct violation of the Versailles treaty and demand full renunciation of the treaty by Germany.

The commission asks Germany to confirm in unmistakable language the assumption of the commission that Germany has no intention of renouncing rights which have been, or should be, transferred by Germany to the commission under article 260 of the Versailles treaty.

Explicit assurances from Germany are also requested that the Rapallo treaty contemplates no new charges against the German budget in connection with compensation for its nationals or for the reconstruction of Russia. Germany is further asked to make clear that the German property in Russia given up by the provisions of the Rapallo treaty is privately owned and not state property.

NEGRO CONVICT ON TRIP FROM PRISON TO LOOK AFTER AFFAIRS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, May 5.—D. H. Hayes, negro convict in the State penitentiary here, who is reported to own land in the Tampico oil fields of Mexico on which valuable strikes have been made, went to Kansas City early this morning, in charge of a prison official, to get documents relating to the land, from a safety deposit box in a Kansas City bank.

Hayes, who is serving three years from December last, from Buchanan County, for having in his possession a forged draft with intent to defraud, paid the expenses of himself and Buck Williams, Deputy Yard Master of the prison, who went along. The pair departed in a Pullman on the fast mail of the Missouri Pacific.

Hayes has refused flatly to discuss his oil venture with newspapermen, and prison officials have declined to divulge any of the details, except that Hayes, who also is known as James Manuel, received a telegram from one of his advisers not to part with his holdings for less than $4,000,000. He has received numerous visits from relatives and would-be friends since publication of that fact.

SURE WAY TO GET RID OF DANDRUFF
There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have. You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

CITIZENS PLAN TO CLEAN UP EAST ST. LOUIS

Committee of 1000 to Be Formed at Meeting Sunday Called by Ministerial Alliance.

Plans for a committee of 1000 to "clean up" East St. Louis will be formulated Sunday at 2 p. m. at a mass meeting of church members, under the auspices of the Ministerial Alliance, which 10 days ago actuated by publicly given treatment of prisoners by East St. Louis police and conditions of vice and gambling, decided to form the committee. The meeting will be in the First Baptist Church, Eleventh and State streets.
"The East St. Louis Society for the Suppression of Commercialized Vice, Gambling, and the Manufacture and Sale of Illicit Liquor," was chosen as the name of the committee at a meeting last night of the Ministerial Alliance, and a tentative constitution was adopted. This constitution will be read at Sunday's meeting and members will be admitted for a fee of $1. Application to incorporate will be made to the Secretary of State.

James P. Flannery, newly appointed member of the East St. Louis Board of Fire and Police Commissioners, said today that he will immediately notify the City Commissioners that he will be unable to serve on account of business activities which frequently take him out of town.

He had already qualified for a bond. The new board did not meet on its regular date last night, as Flannery was then out of town for his building materials firm, James P. Flannery & Son. The other members of the new board are Dr. J. L.
Wiggins and Thomas W. Gregory.
A third member may be appointed at the meeting of the City Commissioners Monday.

NEW TRIAL IS SOUGHT FOR SACCO AND VANZETTI

Government Witness Repudiates Sworn Identification of One of Two in Statement.
By the Associated Press.
DEHAM, Mass., May 3.—Repudiation of his testimony by Louis Pelsier, one of the Government identification witnesses at the trial of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzett, convicted of murdering a paymaster and special officer in South Braintree, April 15, 1920, formed the basis for a motion for a new trial filed here today.
Pelsier testified at the trial that Sacco was the "dead image" of the man he saw shoot Paymaster Frederick Parmenter and Special Officer Alessandro Berardelli. In a sworn statement accompanying today's motion he declared that was not the truth.
Roy E. Gould, who was shot through the coat by the fleeing robbers declared in a statement also accompanying the motion that neither Sacco nor Vanzetti did the shooting.
Gould did not testify at the trial, as he said he was in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island and did not read about it.

County and City Government in State So Lacking in Flexibility as to Hamper Larger Communities

Home Rule Charter System Has Been a Partial Solution for Constitutional Rigidity, but Much Remains to Be Worked Out.

By PROF. ISIDOR LOEB.

Dean of the Faculty of Business and Public Administration and Professor of Political Science and Public Law in Missouri University.

THIS is the thirteenth article in the series Prof. Loeb is writing for the Post-Dispatch on the new Constitution, to make which delegates will assemble in Jefferson City next month. The series will be continued from day to day until it is completed. Prof. Loeb has been one of the most ardent advocates for a new organic law for the State and is widely known as an authority on constitutional subjects.

County government in Missouri is administered by a general assembly of officials dealing with special matters. Throughout the greater part of our history the general county authority has been a County Court composed of three members, but before the adoption of the Constitution of 1875 there were infinite variations introduced by special acts in the different counties. These disappeared with the enactment of the general law of 1877, providing for a County Court of three members, one of whom was to be elected at large for four years, while the two associate judges are elected for terms of two years by the voters of the county.

The Legislature has created about one dozen additional special county officials and in most cases has provided for their election by the voters. While most of the county officials were originally chosen for four-year terms, there has been a strong tendency to lengthen the term so that today all are elected for four-year periods except the Prosecuting Attorney and the two Associate Judges of the County Court.

Decentralization in County System. The system of county administration is one of great decentralization, the County Court having little control over the special officials. Moreover, many of these officials perform functions for the State Government, the latter thus having a very indirect supervision or control over these local officials. Under a law enacted in 1913, the State Auditor, on the request of the County Court or the County Commission, may audit the accounts of county officials and to establish a uniform system of accounting in such offices.

The general county administration in Missouri is typical of that existing in other states. It arose from primitive conditions and is not adapted to a county with large population and complex social conditions. Hence, there has arisen some demand for a reorganization of county government so as to produce greater responsibility and increased efficiency in administration. Commission government in cities has been of influence in this movement. Difficulty in realizing these changes has arisen from constitutional provisions prohibiting special legislation and requiring uniformity. The small rural counties are satisfied with the present system and the Legislature has handicapped the Commission movement by meeting the special needs of the more populous and developed counties. Two solutions of this problem have been proposed: One is the consolidation of city and county government in large cities, and the other the home rule city charter plan is adapted to county government.

Consolidation of City and County Government. The plan of consolidating city and county functions in one body has been secured by different methods for special cities in a number of states. It arose from the fact that in which all cities are separate from the counties and exercise certain county functions. Consolidation also obtains in Baltimore, Denver, Philadelphia, and San Francisco. In the latter two former it was brought about by separation of the city from the county while the other cities were expanded so as to include the entire county. The Missouri Constitution of 1875 authorized the former plan for St. Louis and it was carried into execution the following year. Since that time the city of St. Louis has been treated as a county for many purposes. The latter situation also authorized the Legislature to make provision for the consolidation of city and county government in all counties containing a city with more than 100,000 inhabitants. No action has been taken under this provision.

Home Rule Charter for Counties. Consolidation is a satisfactory plan where the county contains a large city. It is ineffective in the case of a county in which the population is large and relatively dense, but which includes a number of cities, none of which has a considerable population. This condition will arise in counties adjacent to a large city and in Missouri is found in St. Louis County. This county had a population in 1910 of 160,737, and is rapidly growing. It contains eight cities, each with a population over

U. S. RELIEF WORKERS REPORTED BY TURKS

Director of Kharput Unit Says American Christians Are Being Cruelly Treated.

By the Associated Press. CONSTANTINOPLE, May 5.—Four American relief workers have arrived here after having been deported from Kharput, Turkish Armenia, 50 miles northwest of Diarbekir. They are F. New Discoveries by Moorehead Renew Geologists' Controversy Over Origin of Cahokia Mounds Explorer Finishes Spring Work and Reaches Conclusion That Site of Prehistoric Indian Village Covered More Than 500 Acres.

The explorations of the University of Illinois through Warren King Moorehead, archeologist, into the Cahokia group of 80 or more mounds in St. Clair and Madison counties, Illinois, has renewed a controversy among geologists as to whether the mounds are artificial, the laborious work of prehistoric Indian tribes, or are the cutting of the Mississippi's swirling currents.

Dr. A. R. Crook, former Illinois State Geologist and now curator of the State museum at Springfield, in the past has expressed doubt that the mounds were artificial, and he once stated that the largest of the group, the mighty Monk's Mound, was without question a natural pyramid.

Prof. M. M. Leighton of the University department of geology, and Dr. Crook spent two days, ending yesterday, in minute examination of mounds opened by Moorehead. Dr. Crook said he had observed several things that tended to corroborate his past views, but that he was not ready to say that even the smaller mounds were artificial. Prof. Leighton said that his work had only started and he would endeavor to return to conduct further examinations of the strata of dirt which the mounds exhibit in cross section.

Moorehead Ends Spring Work. Archeologists, including Moorehead, have been excavating the mounds since last fall. He has completed his spring excavations yesterday, after having found further evidence that the mounds were artificial. Moorehead departed last night for Andover, Mass., where he will conduct a canoe expedition in Connecticut to seek light on prehistoric New England tribes.

He has concluded that the village site is larger than he at first believed and comprises more than 500 acres. He is of the opinion that further digging will disclose much of interest bearing on the lives and arts of the people who had vanished in 1850, when La Salle and Marquette explored the vicinity of St. Louis, and who lived here during some indefinite period preceding that date.

One of the mounds opened by Moorehead this spring in more exhaustive fashion than any of the mounds heretofore have been excavated, was a conical structure, 24 feet high, with a pit 50 feet wide reaching from the mound to its base, in which he discovered a ceremonial structure, the meaning of which he does not undertake at this time to comment upon. It consisted of two burned clay fireplaces, or altars, about 18 inches in diameter, surrounded by a circle of tepee poles, and a larger circle, which he concluded was a sun symbol frequently found in the Cahokia group of mounds. The altars were filled with ashes which upon chemical examination proved to be bone ashes.

Moorehead also is hopeful that exhaustive explorations covering perhaps five years will locate a cache or storehouse of Cahokia ceramics and implements which will give further place the ancient people who inhabited the great American bottoms among American prehistoric tribes. WOMEN VOTERS ELECT OFFICERS, ADOPT PROGRAM

Mrs. Jessie M. Williams of Webster Groves Is Chosen President of the State League.

PLAN TO WORK FOR OUTLAWRY OF WAR

State Legislature Program Outlined—Banquet Last Night Brought Three-Day Convention to Close.

Election of officers, adoption of the year's program of work and a banquet at the Claridge Hotel last night brought to a close the annual three-day convention of the Missouri and St. Louis Leagues of Women Voters.

Officers elected for the Missouri League were: Mrs. Jessie M. Williams, Webster Groves, president; Mrs. T. Walter Hardy, Normandy, first vice president; Mrs. Hugh Stevens, Jefferson City, second vice president; Mrs. Ida M. Hendrick, Washington, third vice president; Dr. Nancy Mack Hain, Sedalia, recording secretary; Mrs. W. D. Freudenberger, Columbia, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. H. H. Muehl, treasurer.

The St. Louis League's co-president chosen were: Mrs. D. O. Ivie, independent; Mrs. Fred A. Reid, Democratic; and Mrs. Clarence V. Beck, Republican. The nine vice presidents named were: Mrs. E. T. Seney, Mrs. E. M. Crossman, Mrs. C. W. Swingley, Mrs. Ernest W. Six, Mrs. Roscoe Anderson, Mrs. Irvin Bettman, Miss Marie B. Ames, Miss Emily M. Fischer and Miss Laura S. Edwards.

Program for Year. The program for the year, in addition to the report of the Legislative Committee earlier in the day, included: Work for the outlawry of war; questions and discussion of the free system in factory inspection and provision for adequate appropriations for the work; adoption of the National League's program for lowering living costs; condemnation of the equal rights blanket amendment; adequate appropriation for hygiene and the welfare of school children under existing legislation; opposition of school grounds for supervised play during the summer; support of the civil service provisions now in the statutes, as against the spoils system; reiteration of the league's stand on open forums for all questions; and deferring of minimum wage action by the league until the workers themselves can express their desires.

The legislative program to be worked for at the next session of the State Legislature includes: Equal representation of women on all party committees; acceptance of the Sheppard-Towner bill; a campaign for the passage of the county unit bill; abolition of the old caucus system in the nomination of candidates for municipal office; special changes in registration and primary laws as may be advisable; amendment of the statute of 1921 providing for the city-manager plan of Government in cities of the third class by incorporating the provision for the recall of members of the City Council; eligibility of women for jury service, subject to certain exemption; campaign for the passage of a constitutional amendment abolishing first-paper voters, and a literacy test as a suffrage qualification.

The report was submitted to the President by Walter F. Brown of Ohio, chairman of the commission, at a conference at the White House last night attended by the members of the body. Other conferences are expected to be held by the executive with members of the commission and other congressmen on the reorganization proposals which have been understood to include consolidation of the war and navy departments and rearrangement of several bureaus.

Harding May Name Democrat. Reports of the Committee on Social Hygiene and Child Welfare made by Miss Carol Bates, chairman, for both, were adopted in principle, but not in detail, it being held that insufficient time remained to go fully into the reports.

Miss Bates' Recommendations. Miss Bates' reports included recommendations for the establishment of a State industrial farm for women, a home for the feeble-minded, employment of parole officers for wife and child abandonment cases in counties, and requirement of a five-day notice being filed before any person may marry.

Confession of harsh and brutal treatment of prisoners in jails and police stations, also was included in Miss Bates' report, as was a request that President Harding deal leniently with persons imprisoned under the espionage act, investigation of these latter cases and release of prisoners found deserving such action was urged.

Editorial Comment Upon Nomination of Goldstein

New York Papers Express Unfavorable Opinions of St. Louisan's Fitness for Post.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, May 5.—Editorial comment in New York newspapers upon the nomination of Nat Goldstein as Collector of Internal Revenue for the St. Louis district was highly unfavorable. Some of the editorial articles were:

The Globe: The designation of Nat Goldstein, one of the Missouri politicians whose unattractiveness to the Lowden manager probably cost the Illinois Governor the presidency, is one of the most serious political blunders of which Mr. Harding has been guilty. The episode will be long remembered and not easily forgiven. On his record Mr. Goldstein was more than the Republican national convention could swallow. The public generally is certainly not less affronted.

The Evening Post: Goldstein, a court clerk, admitted to the Senate committee investigating election expenditures that Jacob Babler, Republican National Committee man for Missouri, had given him a check for $2500. The gift was made from money furnished by the Lowden group, although Gov. Lowden specifically denied any knowledge of the transaction. At any event the episode itself is one of the sensational scandals of the presidential campaign and to the general contempt for that kind of politics as much as to any other Mr. Harding owes his nomination. In such circumstances his appointment of Goldstein to be Collector of Internal Revenue in the St. Louis district is a wanton bit of folly which can never be justified.

The Evening Post: On top of an unimpressive record comes a shocking appointment—the nomination by President Harding for the important position of Collector of Internal Revenue for the St. Louis district of a man who was mixed up in the scandal that smashed the Lowden candidacy at the Chicago convention. Nat Goldstein is one of the two Missouri politicians who have been known to have accepted a check for $2500 when he was a candidate for delegate to Chicago, and who understood that it was Lowden money. The unforgiveness of such an appointment in hardy matter for debate. Politically, it introduces a new element into the situation. Hitherto the dissatisfaction with the administration has mainly been directed against the President. The wrong point of the Republican campaign has admittedly been the White House.

It is true that the St. Louis politician has the indomitable reputation of Senator Spencer of Missouri as a man of "absolute integrity." That probably counted heavily with President Harding. But Spencer holds peculiar views about the use of money in politics. He served as the leading champion of Truman Newberry of Michigan, whose nomination as the Republican candidate for the Senate cost him the $250,000 in Missouri Goldstein received only $2500.

ONE Haldeman-Julius is spoken of in the news columns as if he were the originator of the idea of cheap editions of classical and standard works of literature. Is John B. Alden so soon forgotten? I have in my desk two copies of Alden's Elzevir Library, issued in 1883, one being a treatise on the life and works of the Latin poet Juvenal, and the other a similar treatise on the historian Herodotus. They sold at 15 cents each. Edgar Lee Masters, in one of his verses, tells of a man who bought everything that John B. Alden published. If he read all he bought, he had a liberal education. Alden failed in business eventually, but the Seaside Library and other series of paper-covered books, through the use of the second-class mail privilege, carried on his plan of giving works of literary merit for the masses.

The Loss Is Theirs.

I reply to M. T. in Letters from the People will say that she is all wrong in her position regarding the League of Women Voters, which certainly stands for the best interests of the women of Missouri. If they cannot see it it is their loss.

The Twenty-Third (?)

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

HARDING is my shepherd. I shall not work. He maketh me to lie down on park benches, he leadeth me beside the free soup-houses, he restoreth my doubt in the Republican party, he leadeth me in the paths of destruction for his party's sake. Yea, though I walk through the valley of starvation, I do fear evil, for thou art against me; thy politicians and profiteers they frighten me. Thou preventest a reduction in salaries before me in the presence of mine enemies, thou antedote my income with taxes, my expenses runneth over my income. Surely unemployment and poverty will follow me all the days of my life. Republicanism and I will dwell in a rented house forever.

Stranger Approves.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

DURING a two years' sojourn in St. Louis I have missed the varied literary and dramatic clubs which we have in the East. Last Monday evening, at the Wednesday Club auditorium, I was delightedly surprised when I saw the wonderful program of Shakespearean scenes, given by the St. Louis Tercentenary Shakespeare Stock Company. I could not help but say to my friend whose guest I was: "The intellectual East hasn't a club that does better, more professional work than we saw tonight." May the success of the St. Louis Tercentenary Shakespeare Society continue.

The Cross-Legged Post.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

AND there's the chap in the street car who crosses his legs and projects a foot, so that he occupies not only 40 per cent of the seat space, but about 15 per cent of the foot space. What is there to be done with that creature?

Well, never having operated a traction system, I am able to tell Receiver Wells and Col. Perkins all the wide world, just how to obliterate this nuisance. The receiver should employ good husky guys, the husker the better, to ride the cars just to hunt these cross-legged birds. Having flushed one, Mr. Bill Husky should eject the obnoxious right through the window. It would not take more than a few treatments to eradicate the evil, remove one of the most vexing annoyances from street-car riding and so add to the sum of sweetness, joy and urbanity.

Let me say, Mr. Editor, I do not imagine that Receiver Wells will act on my suggestion. I might say, too, that if I were Jack Dempsey, Brother Wells would never have had to consider the suggestion. If I were Monseigneur de Jacques, as they may or may not say over there, the kind of street-car pest I am discussing would have been extinct ages ago.

Dough Boy or Hobo.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I AM a poor homeless hobo. I served two years in the army during the world war and 21 months of the two years I was in France. I was a volunteer. I enlisted on April 17, 1917 in St. Louis, Mo., was in 9th Infantry, 2d Division, and wounded twice. I did not have any home, and haven't got any home now. Can I claim the Missouri State bonus? I've never dreamed of having $240 at one time, but I'd be the happiest hobo in the world if I knew I could get it. DOUGHER BOY OR HOBO.

West St. Louis, Ill.—You are entitled to bonus if you were a bona fide resident of Missouri for a year previous to your enlistment. Apply at any of the Legation posts in St. Louis—the Queen's Row at 13th and Olive—for detailed information.—Ed. Post-Dispatch.

MR. GOLDSTEIN'S APPOINTMENT.

The nomination of Nat Goldstein for Collector of Internal Revenue is indefensible. Senator Spencer's effort to justify it with his characteristic sophistry merely adds insult to injury. It may be conceded that some of the complimentary things Mr. Spencer said about Mr. Goldstein are true. It is true that Mr. Goldstein is efficient in his present office. It is also true that Mr. Goldstein has many attractive personal qualities that win and hold friendships. It may be said of him that his word is as good as his bond. The same thing has been said, with equal truth, perhaps, of many another politician who was, nevertheless, a malign influence in public affairs and whom public opinion properly condemned.

The opposition to Mr. Goldstein's appointment is not personal—or should not be. The truth is that Mr. Goldstein is a symbol of a political order of things which an aroused public conscience and a keener public intelligence have pronounced intolerable. The scandal of the Lowden fund two years ago, which shocked the nation, was a commonplace incident in the school of machine politics in which Mr. Goldstein is an eminent figure. The shock was in the exposure of the thing and was confined to the public. It did not disturb the machine politicians, except as to public reaction.

Locally, Mr. Goldstein has been a directing genius in the same kind of political practice—the practice that is concerned only with winning elections and keeping the offices within the ring and apportioning the favors to the deserving.

Public opinion has revolted against this kind of politics. The public looks with suspicion upon all men in public life who condone such politics and tacitly approve or fail to censure the promotion of such politicians. From that sweeping verdict no man is exempted, however exalted his office. The verdict includes Presidents as well as Senators and Governors.

The public repudiation knows no party lines. St. Louis, for example, expects Senator Reed to be as indignant at the honor proposed for Mr. Goldstein as he was in the Newberry affair. The comment that "Nat has been canonized and has now come for his reward" may be a cynical and witty measure of Senator Spencer's speech, but something more than cynicism or wit is required of Senator Reed, if his hatred of political corruption is to be taken seriously.

A decent respect for the opinion of the American people is demanded of those in high places. If they fail, as they assuredly have failed in the Goldstein nomination, they will pay the penalty.

THE IRISH TRUCE.

A four-day truce, proposed by De Valera, has been arranged between the Irish army factions. In proposing it De Valera ventured that by such an armistice some plan of army unification might be devised. The Daily Eireann's prompt adoption of the suggestion is interpreted by the correspondents as a promise of peace.

Whether De Valera has had a change of heart can only be conjectured at this distance, but in any event it is the first reasonable gesture he has made since the text of the Free State treaty became public. To his implacability are chargeable the terrorism, bushwhacking and deaths of the civil war that has been raging and the endangering of the whole Free State program.

All trustworthy reports from Ireland indicate that the Free State treaty will be ratified decisively in the plebiscite to be held next month. The belated armistice should have commenced with the publication of the treaty and been effective up to the election. The Irish people should have had the opportunity of accepting or rejecting the Free State. De Valera did not think so. He undertook, by force of arms, to reject the proposal—to prevent an expression of the people. If he finally has seen the absurd, tyrannical and indefensible figure he has cut, Ireland is to be congratulated.

WHITMAN IN HUNGARY.

Walt Whitman still has worlds to conquer. Europe mostly joins with the United States in accepting him as America's greatest poet, but Hungary dissent. Hungary has confiscated a Whitman edition fresh from the press, and the publisher is under arrest charged with issuing a book of "bohemian, anarchist, communist nature."

It is easy to understand how a translation of the Whitman strophes, presumably for popular consumption, might take on a reddish tint; that is often enough their hue in their native tongue. The early American verdict, to which Emerson notably excepted, was almost as severe as Hungary's. Even today Santayana brackets Whitman and Browning as "poets of barbarism."

The highbrows, therefore, should not be too impatient with Hungary. Any man of imagination, sympathy and experience who came into contact with some of the most distressing phases of reconstruction blundering, and had lived as an editor in the New York of Tweed, could justifiably propound almost any law that promised a different order. Whitman may have sung too much, but he was, and is, a poet with a voice of thunder, as Hungary will sometime know.

LOCAL GOVERNMENTAL RIGHTS.

One of the most vital questions with which the Missouri Constitutional Convention will be confronted is that of the division of governmental powers between the central State government at Jefferson City and the local governmental unit. The issue is identical in principle with the conflict of powers between the Federal and the several State governments.

"Local rather than State or national officials," says Prof. Isidor Loeb in his series of articles in the Post-Dispatch, "are exercising most of the functions that affect the daily activities and welfare of citizens."

Any allocation of local governmental functions outside the locality must be in conflict with the principles of democracy. A government elected by the people may issue its legislative or executive fiat. Its commands may even be supported by the majority, but, exercised over the prevailing sentiment of any community, are as tyrannical and undemocratic as the commands of an arbitrary monarch. Only subjects on which the part cannot act without the whole, such as interstate commerce, customs, foreign relations and the like, are the proper subjects of Federal legislation.

All the counties and localities of a state similarly have common interests which are the legitimate subjects of state legislation and administration. The State of Missouri has been remiss in failing to recognize that certain State governmental activities are not justified on the principle or fact of common interest.

What interest in common, for instance, has a back-State county with the City of St. Louis on the subject of St. Louis police administration? And yet the 96 counties outside St. Louis are policing this city? This is contrary to the fundamental principle of democracy—local self-government.

If the constitutional convention is fair it will recognize the right of the localities, inherent in the principles of democracy, to self-government. It will enforce the proportional representation that has enabled the counties in the past to steam-roll the centers of population.

PURIFYING THE FEDERAL BENCH.

Dr. Hurley A. Baker of Westerville, O., national superintendent of the Antislavery League, told a conference of the league's state superintendents at Des Moines, Ia., that 15 per cent of our Federal Judges are not enforcing the liquor laws. Those delinquent Judges, Dr. Baker declared, will be exposed.

It is not to be imagined, however, that the league will be satisfied with mere exposing of those venal Judges. The Federal bench must be purified. Perhaps perfection may not be attainable, but the residuum of impurity on the bench can be reduced to one-half of one per cent—a practicable, constitutional proportion.

That, we gather, is what the doctor ordered.

A PROTECTION FOR HOMES.

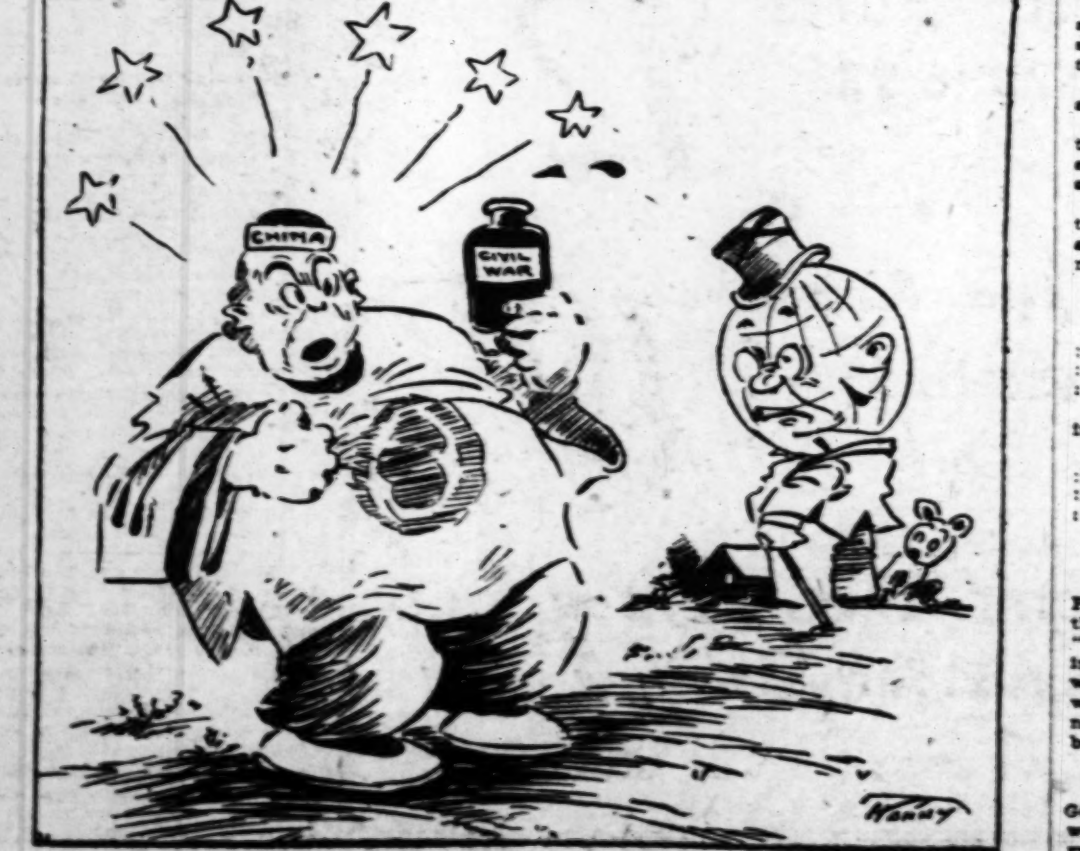

A correspondent in our letter column of the issue of last Wednesday calls upon the voters of the rural districts to retire members of the Legislature who voted for the bill passed by the regular session of 1921 removing the tax from real estate mortgages and replacing it with a nominal fee on each $1000. The correspondent charges that the purpose of the measure was merely to relieve the money lender of his just proportion of the tax and place it upon the benighted backs of the farmers.

Quite the opposite was the purpose of the bill. Investment in real estate mortgages had become prohibitive to capital. It was shown in the hearings on the bill that a 6 per cent investment in a real estate loan in St. Louis, with the tax rate at $3.55, would net the investor only 2.45 per cent. As a result it became practically impossible for builders to obtain loans, and the intolerable conditions produced by the shortage of homes followed.

More than this, the old system of mortgage taxing, if it did result in the evasion of taxation on mortgages, was unjust. If mortgages were taxed there was double taxation, a tax on the mortgage and a tax on its value in the property, all falling on the borrower. The mortgage recording tax is light, but it cannot be evaded and will invite the return of capital for building loans. The mortgage recording tax is making it possible for rent-oppressed and homeless people to build homes of their own.

INTRODUCING A GUEST.

JUST A MINUTE

Written for the POST-DISPATCH
By Clark McDermott

The Richmond Times-Dispatch has been trying to make out what is in the popular mind of late, and it has reached this conclusion:

We gather the drift of popular thought from the special articles now running in newspapers and magazines.

"How to Be Happy, Though Married."

"The Confessions of a Wife."

"How to Hold Your Husband."

"Why Doesn't He Propose?"

"Three and a Crowd"—a mother-in-law discussion.

"The Involuntary Vamp."

"Love Letters of a Divorcee."

To which add the news stories of high life in Jacksonville, Cal., and you have an accurate picture of what is happening to the human intellect.

Maybe we are having a kind of Roman Holiday.

The Globe-Democrat has an angle of the centrifugal government controversy that is worth a smile. It thinks Washington is ignoring the efforts of the Republican party in Missouri to be above Bablerism, as if Washington or any other foreign power ever cared what a captive people thought.

If we were all as busy as the traffic cop at Twelfth and Locust there would not be so much mischief in the world.

Sir: In the Mirror of Public Opinion, the subject of "Colonizing Our Negroes" was expounded last evening.

The viewpoint of the colored folks, themselves, counts for a deal, I think; and it was brought home to me in a clear-cut manner recently in the conversation I overheard between the matron of a railroad station and her friend, who had just stopped in for a chat which commenced:

"Law, honey, I'm tired!"

"Well, you just wait till we all get colonized an' git to Africa, an' you won't have to work so hard—we uns 'll all have stores, an' theaters an' hotels an' such like, all our own!"

"Will, oh? Shabbadoo git rich, huh? Jus' stay dressed up all time, eh?"

"Yas! We uns 'll run everything, an' jus' trade with our own selves, is my undahstandin', an' not have no white folks to buck agin' no nuthin'!"

"No white folks, eh? Huh! What'd I want 'tuh run 'roun' dressed up all time in a silk dress an' no white folks theah to show off 'fore? Not me, honey, not me!"

Maybe this will precipitate the long-needed investigation into what sandwiches are made of.

Another one by a St. Louis avenue grower:

They were bound to do it.

At the Arms Conference in Washington, Prince Tokugawa of Japan was asked what he thought of the "hubs" of American reporters. "Very remarkable, indeed," he replied. "For instance, at the opening of the conference there was a prayer by the Rev. Mr. Abernathy. It was given out to the reporters in advance, all nice and printed. It reached your newspapers before it reached God."

There is one thing that might be said for Nat Goldstein. He is a mighty human fellow, and we probably could have the collector's office run on the time payment plan.

PARABLE OF THE PIOUS FORMIDABLE.

And it came to pass that a certain man, which was a sot, stumbled forth at dawn from the city, and sat him down by the road to solace his heart with the weed which is light tobacco.

And about his feet, there spread a contentment of anthills, and up the people thereof the sparks of his pipe were as lightnings, and the muck of his smoke was like unto the cloud-rack of the hurricane.

And the anti, prostrating themselves before him, cried aloud: "Verily, this is none other than Allah!"

And they worshiped him, saying, "Have mercy upon us, thou lord of lightning and the storm!"

And the drinker of drama having rapped the ashes from his pipe, the fire thereof utterly consumed the tribe which is called Al-Sham, queens, soldiers and workers together. Now during many generations the tribe of Hejas had waged war with the tribe of Al-Sham; and the tribe of Hejas rose up and shouted for joy, saying: "Truly is Allah the god of our fathers and we are his chosen people. Hail, not the flame of his wrath devoured our enemies, and brought our bitter foes to destruction!"

And the tribe stretched forth his foot, and in an instant heaped up a mountain of sand such as a myriad of ants could scarcely have reared, though laboring by day and by night during many ages. And the tribe of Hejas chanted hallelujahs saying, "Behold, Allah is the god of love, who hath wrought for his people this mighty and miraculous work!"

Then divers subtle ones, called prophets, revealed themselves unto the people, saying, "See that ye worship Allah with such gibbering and howls, and his latitude from shoulder to shoulder, began to mock the prophets, saying, 'Lo, this is no god, but a creature like unto ourselves, only infinitely more stupid and racially.'" And the prophets were exceeding wroth, and they ran to and fro stirring up the people to stomp the scoffers to death.

And at that moment the blither of wine scuffed to his feet to be on his way, and trampled under his boot heretics and theologians alike.

IN WHICH A KANSAS EDITOR SPEAKS RIGHT OUT.

(Independence, Kas. Examiner.)

"Early to bed and early to rise, makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise."

So runs the old saw, and many people still quote it with great gusto. I never did believe in any such doctrine. The alarm clock is an abomination and a pest. This thing of getting up early in the morning is all right and you get a lot more work done, but I hate to hear some man brag about getting up early.

There never was a truer saying than Sancho Panza's sweet a sleep as that which comes just at the time you have to get up. I am not sure that it would be any easier to get up at 8 o'clock than at 8 p.m., and while I do get up and start things going, I don't like it and never did. I suppose my arteries come down from the time when I had to get up while the stars were just beginning to be dimmed by the approaching splendor of the sun while yet below the horizon. Then came the feeding and the taking the milk away from the cows. The only way to know whether you were hitting the bottom or the ground was the way the milk sounded. Then follows who insist that they like to get up early in the morning, just for the fun of it, are the same fellows who insist that they really like pumpkin pie.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce what has been the latest comment by the leading public newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

THE RIGHTS OF STATES.

From the Bangor Commercial.

THE St. Louis Post-Dispatch recently addressed an open letter to the Governors of states asking them to participate in action to halt the destructive processes that are transferring the power of local self-government to remote and irresponsible bureaus in Washington. This is a new question, but it is one that is daily receiving attention as the encroachments of the Federal Government upon the states continue.

The fourth amendment guarantees the right of states must in the ultimate come from the states and that it is the money of the states that is expended but not under their control.

The Post-Dispatch points out that in the Federal Constitution it is provided that all power shall be granted to the Federal Government in the expressly granted to the Federal Government in the Constitution, the Post-Dispatch quotes out a very considerable case. The first amendment calls for the freedom of the press, but the Federal Government have held that the press may be excluded from the mails and that they can without jury trial prohibit any publication tending to obstruct the administration of justice. The second amendment says that the right of the people to keep and bear arms has been weakened by the federalization of recent legislation regarding State organizations.

The fourth amendment guarantees the right of citizens to be free from search without warrant, a provision that is being continually violated by Federal officials, enforcing the Volstead act. The Post-Dispatch also claims that the fifth and sixth amendments are also being violated in the enforcement of the Volstead act. We have cited but a few examples of the many that the Post-Dispatch mentions in its appeal to Governors to resist the continuing encroachments of the Federal Government, not the least of which in our mind is the movement for Federal aid in so many lines.

Agree to this.

This is a point of view not shared by Richard, and he is right. In the final analysis, the British have to stand up for their own rights. The British have to stand up for their own rights. The British have to stand up for their own rights.

"DEVIL'S DISCIPLE" IS GIVEN BY THYRSUS

State's Comedy of the Revolutionary War Undertaken by University Students.

By RICHARD L. STOKES.

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW'S melodrama, "The Devil's Disciple," was raised from the shelves of book-covers and brought to the stage last night at the Old Edwards, thanks to the enterprise and high standards of Thyrsus, a dramatic club at Washington University. The production was under the direction of William Carson of the English department, and the large audience was composed mostly of fellow students of the play.

Unless memory errs, "The Devil's Disciple" is the only one of Shaw's plays the locale of which is America. The scene is placed in a small village near Saratoga, N. Y., during the American Revolution. The play is a dramatic study of the character of a commander, known to the colonists as "Gentlemanly Johnny," is famous as one of the greatest and most humane ever lived. OPERA AGAIN IN COVENT GARDEN

But London Playhouse Seems Tame After Old Days.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, May 3.—Covent Garden once more is the home of a grand opera company, after having been reduced to motion pictures and boxing contests for several years. The British National Opera Company, by popular subscription, and comprising exclusively British artists and conductors, has opened the old playhouse.

The first week's program includes three nights of Wagner operas and the critics speak favorably of the performances, but the Garden is tame as compared with the old days, as most folks seem to be tired, not to look at jewels and dresses, but to enjoy the opera.

7 PASSENGERS HURT IN STREET CAR COLLISION

Accident at Intersection of Jefferson and Cass Avenues—Both Motormen Suspended.

Seven passengers were injured when a northbound Jefferson avenue street car hit the side of an east-bound Cass avenue car at the intersection of Jefferson and Cass avenues at 5:20 p. m., yesterday. Both motormen were suspended from duty pending an investigation of the accident by company officials.

Those on the Cass avenue car who were injured were: John Rogers, 58, of 1411 North Twenty-fourth street, fractured leg; Richard Morley, 50, of 4024 Russell avenue, cut on the head; Miss Rose Quinn, 26, of 1023 Goodfellow avenue, left knee wrenched, and Mrs. Rose Schoenbeck, 26, of 2502A Slatery street, right knee wrenched and cut on the face.

Three passengers on the Jefferson avenue car injured were: William Meyers, 32, of 2520 Palm street, right leg fractured; Patrick Scanlan, 21, of 1514 Elliot avenue, right leg cut; and Edward Whitekamp, 25, of 3923 Florissant avenue, cut and bruised. The two cars were approaching each other slowly, having just left their starting points, when both motormen increased speed suddenly. The Cass car was half-way across the Jefferson avenue tracks when the Jefferson car crashed against it. The front vestibule of the Jefferson car was smashed, the motorman, Louis Martin, 1209 South Compton avenue, escaping injury by jumping back into the aisle. Henry Butler, superintendent of transportation for the United Railways, said today that each motorman was under the impression that the other had given him the right of way. The motorman of the Cass car was Jesse Eaton of 2517 Prairie avenue.

CIRCUS OPENS 3-DAY STAND

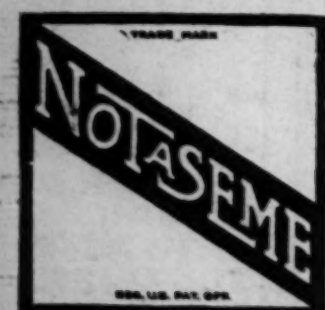

The Gollmar Brothers Circus opened a three-day stand here today at Laclede and Vandeventer avenues, with a parade. Another parade, at 10 a. m. tomorrow, will be routed west on West Pine to Newstead, north on Newstead to Lindell, west on Lindell to King's highway, north on King's highway to Delmar, east on Delmar to Grand, south on Grand to Laclede, west on Laclede to Shaw and thence to the grounds.

One of the features of the circus is an act by the Morales Family, Mexicans, in which one of the group slides down a wire rope balancing himself on his head, over which is fitted a grooved iron helmet to fit the wire. Other features are the radio concert Friday evening and the "animal nursery," in which is a baby hippopotamus, the youngest in captivity, weighing 1500 pounds. The performances will be given twice daily, at 2 p. m. and 8 p. m. The circus was organized in 1889, but this is its initial appearance in St. Louis.

SPURIOUS CHECK WARNING OUT

Police have sent out a warning to tradesmen against cashing what are purported to be pay checks of the American Brake Co., six of which have been cashed recently and found to be forgeries. The forged papers are all numbered the same, "1178," and are made out in each instance for $48.50.

At the grocery of Michael Glogovac, 2602 Chouteau avenue, yesterday, a man who presented a check of the kind bought $1.15 worth of groceries and received the change. A man answering the same description cashed another of the checks at the meat market of Michael Ries, 1234 South Thirteenth street, after buying 50 cents worth of meat. The checks are printed and embossed with a protectograph.

CROKER BURIED IN PRESENCE OF HANDFUL OF MOURNERS

DUBLIN, May 2.—In the presence of only a handful of mourners, the body of Richard Croker, former leader of Tammany Hall in New York City, was buried today on the Glencairn Castle estate, where Croker had spent the last years of his life breeding blooded horses. The coffin was borne on the sturdy shoulders of half a dozen Irish workmen. It was placed in a sealed vault, which had been built some time ago under the personal direction of Croker. Requiem mass was celebrated in the little chapel on the Croker estate by the Rev. Father Kelly. During the ceremony Mrs. Croker, the widow, and her brother, knelt beside the bronze casket. The pallbearers in the procession accompanied the cortege to the vault included Arthur Griffith, President of the Dail Eireann, and Alderman McDonagh, one of the leading members of Eamonn de Valera's party. The Lord Mayor of Dublin walked with Mrs. Croker, who also was accompanied by Mrs. C. J. Mor-Croher's property would be made before next Monday. Among the floral offerings were wreaths from Ethel and Croker's son, Richard, Jr. Mrs. Croker almost collapsed at the grave side. Mrs. Croker is expected to return to the United States to live.

MAN CONVICTED OF KILLING SISTER'S FIANCE AT TRYST

Hatred of Marriage by Two Generations Leads to Tragedy as End of Woman's Belated Romance.

BROTHER ORDERED WOOPER FROM FARM

Finding of Sweethearts in Orchard Prompts Slaying and Burning of Body in Haystack.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
MADISON, Wis., May 5.—Hatred of matrimony by two generations of the Farwells has led to the conviction here of Hartwell Farwell, wealthy Dane County farmer and deacon of the Congregational Church at Windsor, of the murder of his sister's fiance.

Farwell warned his sister not to attempt to marry. After 55 years of spinster life, love came to her and she announced her engagement. Farwell killed Philip Houston rather than have another wedding in the family.

The jury in the case was out 54 hours, returning its verdict late last night.

"I've got plenty of money to provide for my daughters; they don't need to marry," James Farwell, father of the convicted man, often repeated to his family. The father died 10 years ago, but he handed down the heritage of celibacy to his bachelor son, Hartwell, who became even more bitter towards marriage than his sire.

Belated Romance Begins.
A daughter who refused to abide by the wishes of her father married and was estranged from her kin. A son wed and moved away. When James Farwell died, only Hartwell and Alice remained. Alice's love affairs had been snuffed short of the altar by her father. The best years of her life were barren of romance. Then a knight who promised to rescue her from this monotonous isolation appeared on the scene in the person of Philip Houston.

A casual acquaintanceship ripened into love and Alice forgot the creed of her father in her new-found happiness. The brother took little notice at first of the growing friendship.

He believed that his sister was beyond the age of love affairs. Suddenly the truth confronted him. Alice announced that she proposed to marry Philip and move to a farm her suitor planned to buy with his savings.

Clandestine Meetings.

Infuriated at the thought of Alice leaving the Farwell farm to wed a comparatively poor man, Hartwell drove Houston from the house and forbade his sister to see him again. Calm was restored to the household; Houston apparently had deserted the neighborhood. Then it dawned on the brother that his sister had been meeting her sweetheart in secret. The married sister, who had been cast out by the family, opened her doors to the couple as a trysting place. At other times the two would meet in the orchard.

One day in January their tryst was interrupted by the sudden appearance of Hartwell. The brother had seen the two embrace. He was furious. Frightened, Alice fled to the house. A moment later shots were heard. When Hartwell returned to the house he told his sister that "Houston won't bother anyone for a while," Alice believed her fiance had simply been driven away by the shots.

Corpses in Flaming Haystack.

Three days later the Sheriff came to get Farwell. Alice heard them ask her brother about a charred corpse pulled out of a flaming haystack at Portage. Farwell resolutely maintained he knew nothing about the matter. Alice collapsed.

Farwell was brought to Madison, where he broke down and confessed. "I had warned Houston to stay away," he said. "I was afraid he carried a gun, so I went armed. Then in a fit of insanity I shot him."

After confessing Farwell decided to fight for his freedom on the grounds of insanity. For a time the attitude of his sister was a mystery but during the trial just closed she was the star witness. A pitiful figure she was, too, having aged at least 10 years since the tragedy.

The case has been one of the strangest in the criminal annals of the State.

CONVICT'S FINGER PRINT SYSTEM

By the Associated Press.
SAN QUENTIN, Cal., May 5.—A finger print system for use in banks, insurance establishments and all other places where personal identification is necessary has been devised by a life-terminer at the State prison here and is being studied by experts throughout the country. The system calls for only a single print and greatly simplifies the present fingerprint processes employed by police departments, it is said.

The prisoner's plan has been approved by the finger-print expert. Patents have been applied for in Canada, England, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa. The prisoner worked for 15 months on the new system before perfecting it.

MINER SAYS OFFICER TOLD THEM TO 'GO ON'

District President Gave Advice Contrary to Public Speech, Marcher Testifies.

By the Associated Press.
CHARLESTOWN, W. Va., May 5.—C. Frank Keeney, president of district 17, United Mine Workers, after speaking at the Danville (W. Va.) ball park, advising the marching miners last fall to turn back, told some of the leaders to "go on where you were going," Fred Holley, one of the marchers, testified today at the treason trial of William Blizard.

Keeney said, according to the witness, that he had to make a public speech in the presence of Brigadier-General Bandholz "in order to save district 17."

Dr. L. F. Milliken of Philadelphia, who practiced medicine at Blair, W. Va., during the march of armed men, testified that before the State police and a crowd of men clashed on Beech Fork, between 100 and 500 armed men marched into Blair from the direction of Madison. This clash, the defense contended, caused a resumption of the march.

The doctor said he saw the bodies of three men, that he treated three others for wounds. One of the men, he added, was killed at a mining camp as the result of an accident. Predicted Long Revolution.

A union miner told him, Dr. Milliken said, that the fighting was the beginning of an industrial revolution which might last from five to 25 years.
A pistol was drawn against Maj. Charles F. Thompson of the United States Army at Blair when he went there with a presidential proclamation. Dr. Milliken told the jury.

Dr. Milliken drew his pistol, believing the army officer in danger, and called to a resident of the town to tell the armed man to get down from the Major's train, he said, and the incident ended.

Then followed arguments between Maj. Thompson and the armed men about Blair, culminating in one of the men telling the officer, "Here's your train. Now, get on it and get out of here," according to the witness.
Maj. Thompson said he was representing the Federal Government and was not ready to leave. Dr. Milliken said.

Maj. Thompson testified yesterday and made no mention of such incidents, but did tell of armed men trying to commandeer his train.

Attorney Testifies.
L. P. Hager, Madison attorney, who has been sitting with defense counsel representing some of the defendants, was called as a State witness to testify as to a conference between Capt. Wilson, who commanded Federal troops, company officials, Blizard and other mine union officials.

Blizard, it was testified, asked when the troops would go up the river, explaining that the miners had no intention of resisting the troops, but that many of their opponents wore army uniforms, and unless the men were given notice they might fire by mistake on the soldiers.

POLICE JUDGE RILED WHEN TWO POLICEMEN LAUGH IN COURT

Mix Says He Will Report Conduct of Oliver Blackford and James Cagle to Police Board.

Two policemen were whiling away by conversation the tedium of waiting for cases, in which they had made arrests, to be called in Police Judge Mix's court today.
The conversation, subdued at first, grew somewhat animated until one of the policemen burst into a laugh. Judge Mix brought his fist down with a bang. He summoned the two policemen to give their names, Oliver Blackford and James Cagle, and told them that he would report their conduct to President Brockman of the Board of Police Commissioners at adjournment.

"Police arrest citizens for disregard of law and then come to court and show disrespect of the Court," the Judge said.

BILL FOR COAL INVESTIGATING BODY REPORTED FAVORABLY

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 5.—Favorable report was voted by the House Labor Committee today on the Bland bill to create a fact finding commission for the coal industry.

The commission would consist of 10 members, representing miners and the public and Government agencies directly concerned in coal, including the geological survey and the Bureau of Mines and Mining. Report to Congress with recommendations would be required within two years.

Chairman Nolan announced that efforts would be made to get the bill before the House as soon as possible with the hope of its passage prior to summer adjournment.

CHURCH DISCIPLINE TAKEN UP

By the Associated Press.
HOT SPRINGS, Ark., May 5.—Hearing of memorials and petitions proposing changes in the discipline of the church was the principal business before the nineteenth general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, today.

The report submitted yesterday by the commission on the unification of Methodism is expected to result in vigorous debate when reported back to the conference by the Committee on Church Relations. The trend of the last two general conferences was toward unification.

New York Police Increased by 500, 1,000 recruits were added to the police force of New York City today.

GOLTRA LINE MAY FORM PART OF SERVICE TO GULF

Operation of Barge Haul From Twin Cities to New Orleans Expected to Come From Negotiations.PLAN FOR TRANSFER OF CARGOES HEREGoltra Power Would Bring Freight as Far as St. Louis and Carry Bulk Commodities on Lower River.Post-Dispatch, Bureau,
No. 20 Wyatt Building, WASHINGTON, May 1.—An agreement as to the relative operations of the Government river service between St. Louis and New Orleans and the newer Government fleet of four towboats and 19 barges, so that water transportation from the Twin Cities to the Gulf of Mexico will be established, is the expected outcome of conferences here between Edward F. Goltra, for whom the second fleet was built, and Col.
T. Q. Ashburn of the Inland and Coastwise Waterways Service of the army.The agreement will likely provide that Goltra operate a portion of his fleet between the Twin Cities and St. Louis for transfer without breaking bulk to the Government river service and that the remainder of his fleet be operated on the lower river for carrying oil, coal and other commodities, for which the barges of the lower fleet are not fitted. The new fleet barges are open, hopper-type for the transportation of bulky nonperishables. The barges of the lower fleet have cargo boxes which permit them to carry all high-grade merchandise.Benefits From Plan.
Under the operation as devised, a cargo box barge loaded at the Twin Cities would be carried to St. Louis by Goltra's power and there delivered to the lower fleet for carriage to New Orleans. The benefit to the upper valley would be that it would be offered package freight service, which it could not get if Goltra were to conduct an independent operation in the upper river, while shippers of oil and other bulk commodities like lumber in the lower river area, who cannot use the present fleet, would have service.
It will be specified that Goltra shall carry nothing with his fleet in the lower river which will put it in competition with the established Government service, and the Government reserves the right to judge the point in case of controversy.

Knackstedt lived over his shop at 312 Howard street. In his will, filed

COCONUT OIL MAKES A SPLENDID SHAMPOO
If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.
Just soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Multisified coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than anything else you can use for sham-poing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.
Simply put two or three teaspoon-fuls of Multisified in a cup or glass with a little warm water, then moisten the hair with water and rub it in.
It will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and easily, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.
You can get Multisified coconut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Multisified.

$75,000 Fire Loss at Movie Town.
TRUCKEE, Cal., May 5.—This little town, the scene of most of the winter seasons that have appeared in motion pictures for many years past, had a large part of its business district destroyed by fire last night and for a time it was believed the whole town would be burned. The damage was estimated at $75,000.

CONVICT'S ARREST RECALLS WIFE WHO WISHED TO SERVE WITH HIM

Woman Freed of Slaying for Which Husband Was Convicted, Committed Crime to Be With Him.

MUSKOGEE, Ok., May 4.—The report of the arrest at Tucson, Ariz., of Paul Hadley, escaped life convict from the Oklahoma State penitentiary, recalls one of the most sensational criminal cases in the history of local courts, marked throughout by the devotion of a wife, who after being exonerated of a murder charge on which her husband was convicted, committed another offense in order to be with him in his confinement.

Hadley first was taken into custody at Kansas City, Mo., March 30, 1918, for alleged grand larceny in Texas. After many tearful pleas, Mrs. Hadley persuaded Sheriff Giles of Beaumont, Tex., to allow her to accompany her husband to Texas to face his accusers.

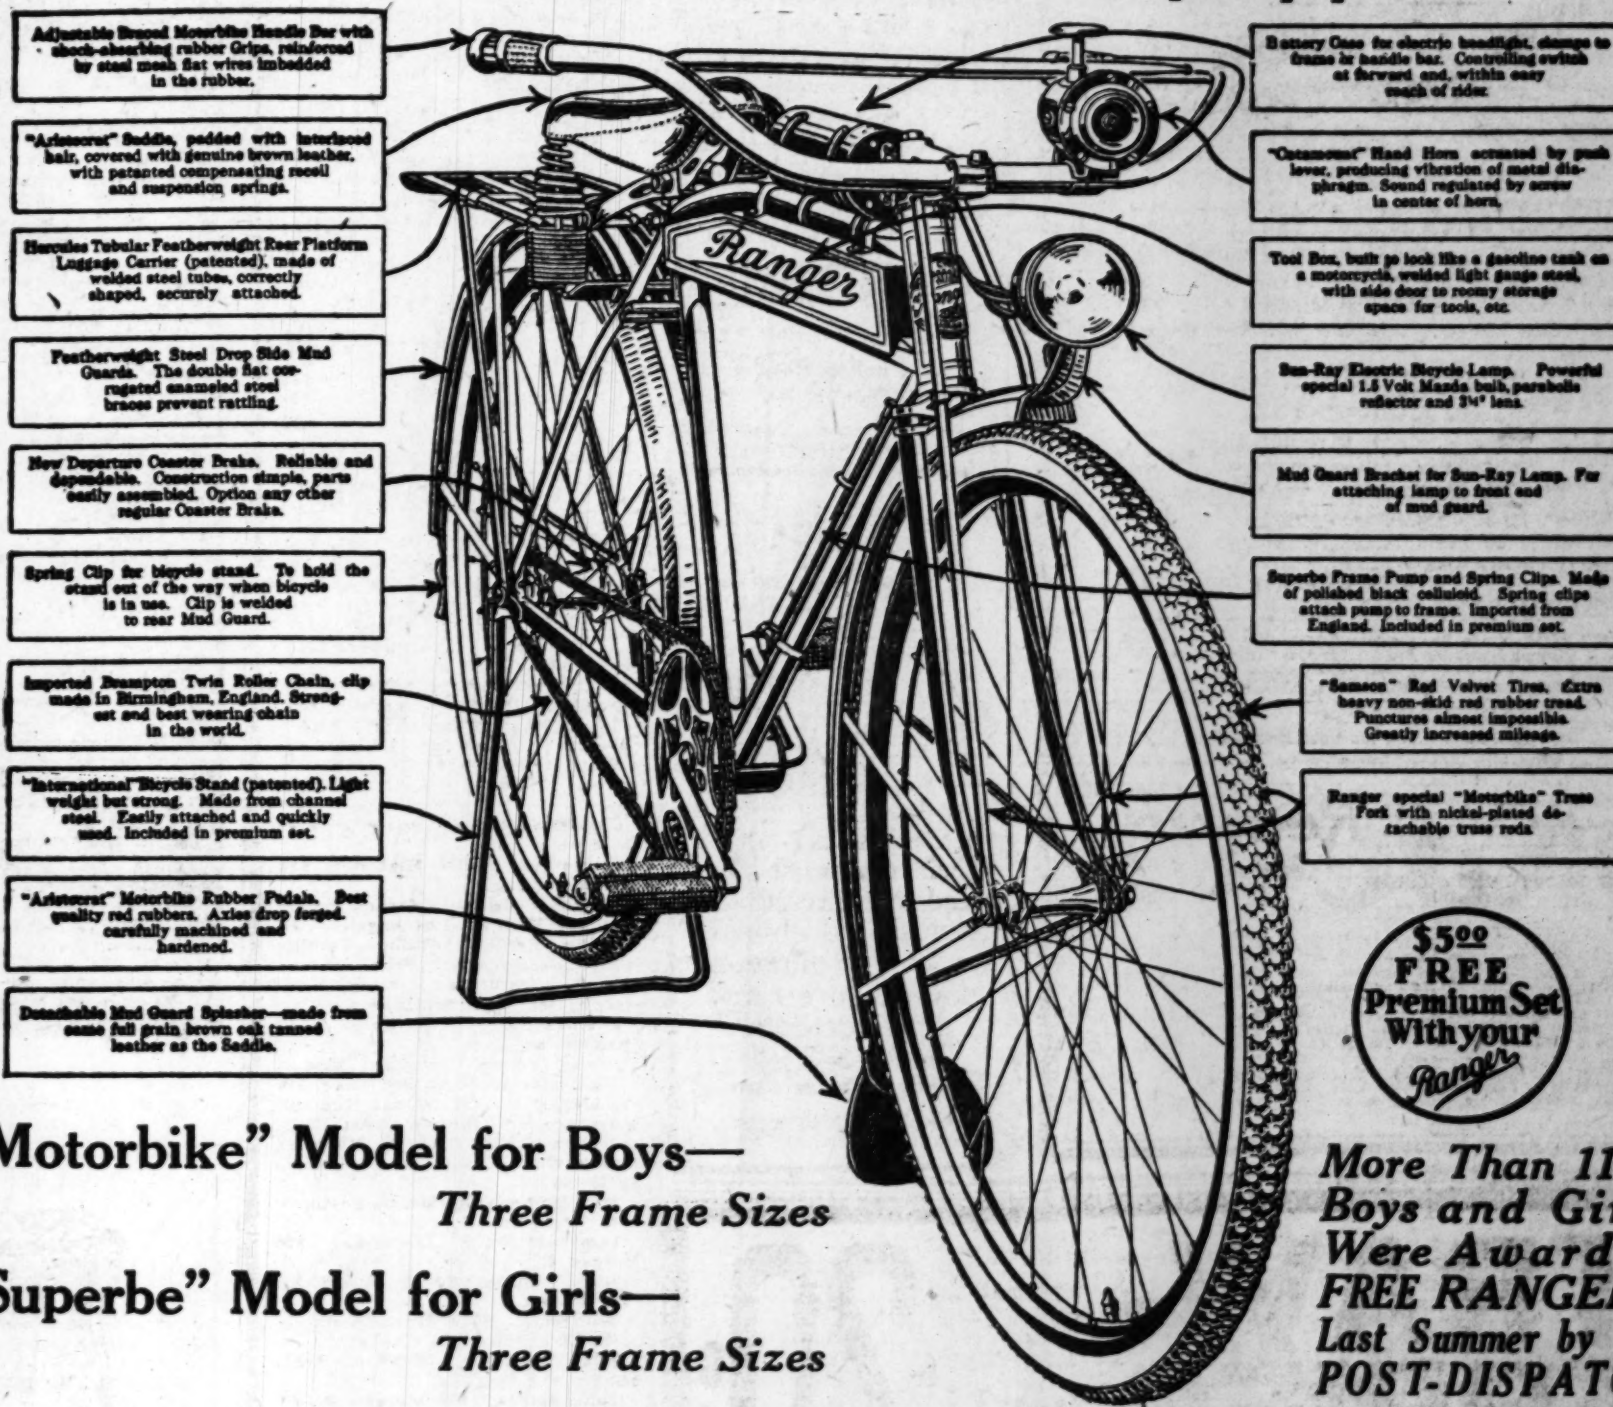

While they were en route to Texas, Mrs. Hadley shot Sheriff Giles from behind, killing him instantly. Hadley then procured the officer's revolver, stopped the train and held off the passengers and crew until he and his wife escaped. Both were apprehended the next day and brought here.

Hadley was convicted of slaying the sheriff and sentenced to life imprisonment. His wife was acquitted on a plea of insanity. Later, she was sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment when she broke jail. She told authorities she wanted to commit an offense that would send her to the penitentiary so she could be near her husband. More than a year ago, Hadley obtained a 10 day's leave of absence to visit his sick mother. He never returned.

Pest of Snails Threatens Vegetation.

SISSER'S SECOND HIT SENDS GERBER HOME; BAYNE IN FORM

By Joseph F. Holland,

Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.
(By Exclusive Wire From Nava.)

DETROIT, May 5.—Scarred somewhat by two applications of the Tigers' claws, the Browns took the field against Detroit today in the final game of the series with Southpaw Billy Bayne in the box and a slightly changed bat formation.

Frank Ellerbe, who has not been hitting up to the standard expected, was dropped to seventh place in the batting order and Walter Gerber moved up to second.

Howard Ehmke, who won the opening game from Shocker with a five-hit exhibition, was Cobb's selection to make it three straight victories.

The Browns will depart for Cleveland tonight with nothing in the way of regrets. The defeats handed out by the Tigers have been plenty and the boys are eager to massacre on the Indians tomorrow and Sunday.

Fast Men Entered in Dash Events of Munny Carnival

Loren Murchison Should Meet With Lively Competition From Anderwert and Downey.

With at least a half dozen 10-second men among the 24 contestants, the 100 and the 220 yard dashes promise to be the real attraction in the municipal championship track and field meet at Francis Field tomorrow afternoon.

Loren Murchison, St. Louis boy, who will wear the colors of the Illinois Athletic Club; Anderwert of Washington U. C. Mel Calhoun of the Epistolians, and Goldschmidt of Washington U. are entered in both the dashes.

The real race is apt to develop between Murchison and Anderwert and Downey are drawn in the same preliminary heat, but if their squad makes the fastest preliminary time there is a chance that both will go into the final heat.

Men representing all the public high schools, St. Louis and Washington universities, the Epistolians, the Illinois A. C. of Chicago, the Principals Academy and the Illinois Gym and Athletic Club of East St. Louis are entered in the dashes.

Dean Leffer, who made a very impressive showing in a recent meet against Oklahoma U., should be a comparatively easy winner in the 220-yard hurdles.

There are 19 events on the program.

SPORTS

NOTHING SERIOUS.

THERE'S more or less excitement in the nation concerning one of more than passing note.

Babe Ruth will undergo an operation, and have the tonsils taken from his throat.

This minor operation, purely local. No pennant hopes of anyone should be wrecked.

Bambino's trouble has been mostly local. Since Landis gave it to him in the neck.

QUITE SO.

A minor operation on a major leaguer is nothing to worry about.

Jack Dempsey's worried following in English newspaper man: "We are sure but the servants of the public." Well done, thou good and faithful servant.

CAN'T BE DONE.

The first rule laid down by our good friend, Dr. Payne, in his vacation guide for children is: "Learn to swim before going into the water." It might also be well to learn how to fly before going up in the air.

THREE children skating on the ice
All on a summer's day.
So fell they all away.

Now, had these children stayed at home,
Or skated on dry ground,
Ten thousand pounds to one
They had not all been drowned.

TOO TRUE.

Nobody but North kept the Reds from going South with Wednesday's game.

Ed Rommel is now engaged in the pleasant and popular pastime of interesting Connie Mack why he held out.

The fact that he is using the Yanks as the lay figure in his practical illustration is not particularly pleasing to the New York fans.

The Browns moved up a notch Wednesday by standing still. Demonstrating that the race is not always to the swift.

The man on the sandbox says the Chinese are going after each other hammer and tongs.

HOYT vs. HUGGINS.

YOU picked on little Hug. As an easy mark to slug. And thought it was popular exploit. Though you wallowed him and flayed him.

By the living Gaud that made him. He's a better man than you are, Mr. Hoyt.

SAFETY FIRST.

"Women to Hold Safety Luncheon." Headline. We take it a paper on "Mushrooms and How to Tell 'em" will be read.

Seems like they have a Beverage over in Indiana that has developed quite a kick.

J., where the games probably will be held Aug. 20 to Sept. 2.

TENNIS STARS WILL PLAY ON WHITE HOUSE COURTS

The matches will be witnessed by the President and Mrs. Harding and other high Government officials.

Choynski to Box Delaney.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 5.—Steve Choynski, middleweight boxer, will meet Jimmy Delaney, St. Paul, in a 10-round bout on the card here on May 12, when Richie Mitchell and Ever Hammer box here.

SULPHUR CLEARS ROUGH, RED SKIN

Face, Neck and Arms Easily Made Smooth, Says Specialist

Any breaking out of the skin, even very itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation begins at once to soothe irritated skin and heal eruptions such as rash, pimples and ring worm.

It seldom fails to remove the torment and disfigurement of eczema and does not have to wait for relief from embarrassment. Improvement quickly shows. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.

WANT CITY TO RESUME ADVERTISING IN GERMAN

Tenth Ward Association Behind Proposed Bill for Abolition of City Journal.

The principal reason advanced for resumption of city advertising in a German language newspaper, as well as in the English language press, is a bill for the abolition of the City Journal, to be introduced in the Board of Aldermen next week. It is that many of the 1200 members of the Tenth Ward Improvement Association, which is sponsoring the bill, are of German descent. The Tenth Ward is in the eastern part of South St. Louis.

This explanation was given by Arthur Stoehr, president of the association, who announced yesterday that he would have the bill introduced by Alderman Wander of the Seventh Ward. Wander said today that his first knowledge of the bill came through this public announcement, but that Stoehr had called him last night and talked about the matter. Stoehr said further that he thought the advertising should be put in a German paper because that provision had existed before the war. During the war an effort was made to eliminate the German advertising of city proceedings, calls for bids, and like matters, but rather than do this it was decided to eliminate all newspaper advertising and print the matter in the City Journal weekly, which sells at a cent a copy or 2 cents by mail. The Mayor signed the ordinance for this association May 11, 1918. The cost of printing the Journal has been about $6000 a year. City officials estimated that the same volume of printing in the newspapers would cost about $40,000.

Stoehr said his association opposed the continuation of the City Journal because, very few people see it. He and city officials agreed that the circulation is about 300 copies weekly. Stoehr said he would not be insistent on the provision for German publication.

FORD SHOALS INQUIRY NEAR END

Senate Committee Hears Two of Detroit Men's Agents

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Inquiry into Henry Ford's proposal for purchase and lease of the Government nitrate and power projects at Muscle Shoals, Ala., was completed yesterday by the Senate Agriculture Committee in so far as examination of W. B. Mayo and J. W. Worthington, the two designated spokesmen for the Detroit manufacturer, is concerned. The proposal itself, however, remains before the committee for continued inquiry, which the committee will make as witnesses appear. In relation to the offers still to be considered.

Worthington gave the committee his first information it has received of a new process for fixation of nitrates from the air. The latest process, Worthington said, was discovered in Italy and was known as the Casella method.

How to Be Happy Though Married

By William McMahon
THE HIKING TRIP.

"G O ahead with the story." The anxious young man before me was typically American—clean cut, frank-faced, and full of a restless vitality. He had been a griffin warrior at Princeton.

"She is the dearest girl in the world," he continued. "I never give another girl a thought. I love her more now than when we were married three years ago. It might be that we started in talking too much of our love for each other, for she has an idea that she should constitute my sole interest in life. I want to be around her all the time, and doesn't think I should stir out without her. It throws her in despair if I associate with the fellows, and then she thinks that my love is growing cold. Sometimes I chafe at this."

"Is there another lady in the case?" I asked. "No, indeed!" he exclaimed. He thought a moment and said, "After all, there is no real trouble between us—I don't know what I am here for anyway."

I said nothing, so he went on: "Every spring along about this time I have been in the habit of going on a hiking trip with a couple of friends. We wander off and take pot luck with farmers and little village inns, fish a bit and cook our fish over a fire of dry twigs and have a good time playing hobo. Probably we drop in to a country dance in a barn, and all that sort of thing. We never start off with any object or design, but just go and go and do the thing that turns up. This has always been a great treat for me. The first year I was married my wife thought she would have to go with us, so I took her along, and it spoiled everything. Last year I went and she stayed at home. When I returned she had worried herself into a fever. Now it is time for another of these trips and I am anxious to go. You know, I have to work very hard and these trips are just the thing to keep me fit." He hesitated here, but I did not hurry him.

"Last year we ran across a country dance. We three fellows entered into the spirit of it and I danced with a rather nice looking country girl. Perhaps we talked a little between dances, and I might have told her some foolish things just for fun. Of course, I didn't tell her that I was married. Well, what did this girl do but write a letter to me, just an innocent friendly letter, expressing the hope that I would come and see her again, and all that sort of thing. My wife opened the letter, and oh, boy!"

"Oh, she is too sensible to attach much importance to the letter. The idea is, she can't see why I want to go away from her for a week. She reasons it out that I must be tired of her, and away she went to her mother's. The whole thing is concluded, 'I am facing a problem. That's why I have come to you.'"

"Do you suppose," I asked him, "that you could, by any possibility, go on these hikes once every two years instead of once every year?" "All right, do that," he said, cutting out 50 per cent of the bone of contention. That was wisdom. There probably is no reason why you should abandon all your friends because you are married, and there is also no reason why you should not play with them at your home and let your wife in on the general wit, wisdom and humor. You don't have to cut out everything that you want to do and that she does not want you to do, but you can afford to cut out 50 per cent of them in order to make her happy. Her love for you may cloy sometimes, but if you didn't have 100 per cent of her love you would be a miserable wreck. Now that you have it you don't appreciate it. It may be better for you to cut out 50 per cent of the hikes than to cut out 50 per cent of her love. Does that sound all right?"

He was a little dubious. "Besides, don't worry about your self so much, and about being fit, and about your physical condition, and about your recreation, and about your bondage. Think of hers a little bit."

"If I should cut out 50 per cent of the hikes, when would I begin?"

"Now," he said. "He looked more crestfallen than ever. He arose to go, saying that he would think it over, and I told him that it was the only way. Furthermore, I told him that this 50 per cent business was the greatest thing in the world as a regulator of married life. Before he left I obtained the address of his wife."

I addressed a note to his wife asking her to call at my office. She came, I told her that her husband had been there a day or so before and was very much worried because she had gone away. I assured her that her husband loved her and her alone, and so on. I begged that she be patient with me while I urged a few things upon her, in the interest of both herself and her husband. "You are the same as lots of young wives who love their husbands and whose husbands love them. You feel truly sorry for other couples because none of them loved as you loved. It was all wonderful, miraculous. Love begins like a mountain torrent and carries everything before it—rocks and trees and underbrush, but by and by it gets to the smooth-flowing river, and just goes along. Then it is of the right sort. The change from the torrent to the river is what you are passing through now. After a while you will find that there is smoother sailing on the river."

Her sad little face and pathetic eyes were all attention. "It is a favorite theme of some writers, this 'holding your husband business. Many wives think that their husbands are constantly trying to get away from them. You don't have to worry about that. A husband is like a dog—tie him with a chain in the back yard and he is constantly tugging at the chain, trying to get away. Let him go and he may wander a few yards away, but back he will always come. Do not chain your husband. Let him do as he wants to do and then he will not want to do it. Just make up your mind to be 50 per cent less restrictive, and that will accomplish wonders. Lengthen the chain, if you think he must have one, for the longer the chain the less he will tug at it. Your husband spoke of the hiking trips."

"I just don't see why he should want to get away from me even on these trips," she said feebly. "Why not? It is the best thing in the world for both of you. You mustn't be stuck under each other's noses continually year in and year out. When he goes away on these hiking trips, how anxious he is to get back home to you. It is like getting married all over again. Then see how much he is rested and invigorated. See what pleasure he has had. Don't you want to give your husband pleasure?"

"Oh yes, yes." "Love is something that cannot be forced. It never is increased by one accusing the other of not loving enough. Love isn't a matter of duty and when duty is urged in reference to it, it is liable to droop and die. But let us be practical and get down to cases. May I offer a suggestion?"

"Yes, please, by all means." "Then be just 50 per cent more liberal than you have been. Every second year urge your husband to go off on a hike or similar vacation with his friends. That is a compromise. Will you do that?"

She seemed to consider this proposition doubtfully, but promised that she would consider it. She asked when she would begin providing she thought favorably of the idea.

"Now," I said. "Urge him to go on a hike at once, and be cheerful about it. Really, it means your happiness and his."

She went away. A year or so later I ran across the young gentleman, and he was good enough to tell me that my plan worked beautifully. "That 50 per cent business is great stuff," said he. "Fifty per cent on the part of both makes a hundred per cent altogether, for harmony."

He caught the point.

WHAT EVERY WOMAN SHOULD KNOW

IF the family object to fat on meat, trim this all off and once a week or oftener, if you have no cool place to keep it, fry out the accumulation and set it aside for soap. When ready to make the soap, collect all the grease on hand, and if not sufficient, buy tallow or fat to make up the amount, and fry this out. The following recipe requires six pounds of grease. The grease must be clean and free from salt. Put the contents of a can of condensed lye into a kettle containing one quart of water; stir with a stick to allow the lye to dissolve, which will be almost immediately. This solution will become hot; allow it to cool. Have the melted grease lukewarm and very gradually pour the lye into the grease, stirring constantly. After all the lye has been added continue stirring the mixture until it is thick and pasty and will form throughout. Then pour it into suitable molds. A deep tin pan will do, and when it becomes firm set it can be cut into desired lengths and set aside to harden. Pile it up on a high shelf in such a manner that the hot air can play around each bar. It is a well-known fact that it is more economical to use soap that is thoroughly dry and hard. Thirties housewives buy soap by the case in order to let it thoroughly harden before using it.

If you cannot afford a cedar chest take a box of any soft wood, fasten the cover on with hinges. Stain the outside of box or cover it with cretonne, which will convert it into an article of adornment to the room. Thoroughly brush the inside with oil of cedar and you will have a perfect mothproof chest for furs and woolens. To further insure its good qualities keep a bag of cedar chips inside just as you would in a regular cedar chest.

THE ONE UNWANTED

The Story of a Misunderstood Girl

By RUBY AYRES
(Copyright, 1922.)

CHAPTER XXXIV—A FAIRY GODMOTHER.

She held out her hand to me—a white, useless-looking hand it was, and smothered with rings, but after a second I put my own in it.

"Well?" I said again uneasily. I had never known her like this before, she was always hard and unyielding.

"I have heard a great many stories about you—and a young man down in the country," she said. "I don't know the truth—no. You need not look so angry. I don't want to know—but if you really care for him, don't make the mistake of your life by marrying Lionel Champion. Years ago I did something of the same sort and you see what I am now! A sour old woman! There! I've never told anybody else, and I don't know why I've told you. Run away," she added sharply, as if ashamed of her confidence.

But I stood looking at her with eyes that really seemed to see her for the first time.

Her voice had been so gentle when she spoke, and there was something quite sweet about her face now its harshness had gone.

Before I was aware of it I had faltered out: "But if—if he doesn't care for me? What then?"

"Are you sure that he doesn't care?" said Aunt Allison.

Mother came into the room and I could say no more, but all day long her words haunted me.

"Are you sure that he doesn't care? Are you sure?" Of course, I was sure! Had he not said so himself?

But I wrote to Mrs. Albany that afternoon and told her about my engagement.

I knew she would tell Mark Anderson, and then, if he still cared for me, ever such a little, surely? "A but he did not care! I was a fool to try and cheat myself with such a hope."

When Lionel came that night and pressed me to fix our wedding day, I said I did not care when it was.

"In a fortnight!" he asked. I drew back.

"Oh, not quite so soon—in a month, perhaps."

"A month today, then," he said, and I answered, "Oh, very well."

A month, or two months! What difference did it make?

As I was going up to bed that night I passed Aunt Allison's door and knocked.

When I entered I found her sitting by the fire with a bundle of letters lying in her lap. I am not sure, but I think she had been crying, though she was so old that surely all her romance had died out of her life long enough ago.

"I knew it was you," she said. "Well, what do you want?"

She spoke harshly, covering the letters with both hands, and I stood still, nonplussed.

"Only—to say goodnight," I faltered.

"Goodnight," she said abruptly, and then as I turned crestfallen away she spoke again. "Come here, Sally. And when I went back to her she said: 'Should like you to kiss me if you will.'"

And when I had kissed her she added: "I wish I had been kinder to you; I wish I had troubled to know you better. Some day I'll do my best to make it up to you."

I did not take much notice of her words at the time, and one morning some days after she had gone back to her own lonely and splendid home, she died quite suddenly.

"If you feel like handing the money to your sisters as a deed of gift," he went on, "I am more than capable of making it up to you, I promise."

"You are very generous," I said. "Jealous perhaps would be a better word," he answered. "I hate the idea of your being independent. It would have been my greatest pleasure to know that I could give you all the things you have ever had."

I colored uncomfortably. I always felt nervous when he began to talk like this; sorry, too, that our bargain was so one-sided, for he seemed ready to care for me, whereas I only liked him in a friendly way.

"Is it asking too much?" he asked. "I should like to please you," I said reluctantly. "But—oh, well, I'll think it over. But why Nell and Winnie should have everything they want in this world I quite fail to see."

I did think over what he had asked me, and decided that perhaps it did seem rather selfish. After all, as he had said, he was quite able to give me everything I wanted, and as a family we had none too much money. I wondered if I should rise to any great popularity if I suddenly announced to mother and the girls that I was going to be magnanimous and present them with Aunt Allison's money.

I was dressing for dinner when one of the maids brought me a letter from Mrs. Albany.

I knew her difficult scrawly writing at once, and my heart began to beat traitorously.

Now at last I was to hear news of the Gable Farm and perhaps of Mark. I tore the much-studied envelope open with eager hands.

"Dear Miss Sally: This few lines to thank you for your kind letter and to say that we are all well me and Albany, Ned and both the dogs. The weather has set in warmer, and it won't be long before there are primroses, when we hope that you will remember your kind words of coming down to see us. I am glad to hear you are going to be married, and me and Albany send our best respects and hopes that you will be very happy with the gentleman of your choice."

"There is not much news here except that Mr. Mark Anderson is leaving the farm, as he says he can't anyhow make it pay. Poor gentleman, he started with a load of debt on his back and his aunt and cousin to keep—Miss Nina and cousin said he was to have married, but I was never so sure. He was up here last night, Miss Sally, and I showed him your letter, which he read through; then he laughed and said, 'Well, here's wishing her good luck!' which I'm sure as he does, miss; but he's full of sore trouble himself, and Albany says it will about be the ruin of him now the mortgage on the farm has fallen in, and him not able to pay. Dear Miss Sally, we do miss you, and hope you are well and comfortable, also your lady mother. Albany sends his best respects and wishes every wish for your great happiness."

"From yours respectfully," "MRS. ALBERRY."

I read it all, but the only part that seemed to matter were those few lines about Mark.

Ruined, was he? And going to leave the farm. In spite of the way he had treated me, it hurt unaccountably to hear that he was in trouble. I longed to be able to help him! He had given me all I had ever known of real happiness. It was something by which to remember him with gratitude. Since my engagement to Lionel Champion I had done my best never to think of him, but now I felt the same desperate feeling of homesickness stealing over me.

To Be Continued.

A Noted Educator Asks Girls a Question

By DR. WM. A. MCKEEVER.

WHAT do you see imaged when you stand before the mirror. My Girl, is it your person or your personality which presents itself most conspicuously to your mind? What do you discern behind the loveliness, the loveliness, the face powder, and the other frills which constitute your adornment?

Do not forget that some one is going to read you through at a glance. You cannot put on enough embellishment to deceive the many persons of mature judgment about you. And if you attend merely to adornment of your person and neglect your personality—your inner goodness—these knowing ones will see the fault at a glance and raise you accordingly.

Remember, My Girl, that well-behaved people do not go about snapping their opinions in the faces of others, but they nevertheless snap their opinions secretly. Their minds are at work just as actively as if they were uttering every thought in words. Thus they may be secretly saying to you as you pass: "How vain." "How silly." "What a flirt."

"A light heart, a lazy hand and an empty head." In time these secret denunciations will have their effect on the world's opinion of you. Now, go back to the mirror and take another look. Ask yourself what is behind the pretty poise. Ask yourself if you are really worth while within. Are you doing some honest thing daily—honest study, for example—which tends to improve your inner merit? Are you doing some small, honest work every day that is good enough to be worth paying for, even though it may be performed about the home place? Are you doing something daily that is helpful to others, that calls for a bit of sacrifice and unrequested service on your part?

Finally, look into your spirit. My Girl, do you take at least a few moments daily to think about The Great Power which keeps the world going, which keeps the seasons changing, which keeps the flowers blooming, which keeps your own heart pulsating?

Does not the mystery, the mightiness, the majesty of this unseen but felt Divinity of the universe suggest to you a possible godliness within your own soul and behind the outside embellishments with which only a foolish young girl would ex-

UNCOMMON SENSE

By JOHN BLAKE

Here Is Your College—Pick Your Course

AT least half of the letters that come to me contain inquiries as to the best way to obtain an education.

They come from earnest and ambitious young men and women who feel that the lack of college training has tied them to drudgery for life.

Earnestness and ambition are fine qualities, but unless they are accompanied by intelligence and observation they will count for but little.

Education is merely a means of mental development. The wisest of instructors can do little more than show their pupils where knowledge is to be obtained and point out the best methods of securing it.

This newspaper, if it is studied carefully from the first page to the last, will do almost as much for the student.

It is, in the first place, a carefully compiled report of the progress of the human race.

It furnishes an opportunity for the study of men and women by telling its readers what they are doing and thinking.

The man or woman who has preserved every copy for the last eight years has a complete and fascinating history of the greatest war of all times.

In its columns can be found the story of inventions and scientific discoveries, the best thought of the time, the reviews of the best books and the best dramas.

The opinions of every man of prominence in the world are recorded day by day.

Whether or not the reader agrees with its politics, he will find that it faithfully reports all political happenings, leaving him to draw his own conclusions about them.

The careful student of this newspaper is receiving an education day by day, and an excellent education.

He is brought into contact with the best minds of the world. The whole field of civilization is before him when he chooses.

There are pages for the business man, the student of politics and the baseball fan.

This newspaper will do for you what a college will do—if you will use it as your college. It cannot shut you up in a classroom and force you to study it. It does not quiz you on what you have learned. But it offers you many courses, and a chance to specialize in any one you prefer, giving you much information in your specialty and pointing out where the remaining information you require may be obtained.

STUDYING MEN

By Winifred Black

"STUDY MEN." That's what Miss Elsie Hill, chairman of the Executive Committee of the National Women's party, says to American college girls.

Miss Hill declares that 30 per cent of the college girls marry within two years after graduation, but they are for the most part sadly lacking in the knowledge of how to make a success of marriage. So she advocates what she calls a "red-blooded" course in domestic relations, and she wants that course made a required part of a college education.

Well, well—here's a new idea!

"Study men"—good gracious, Miss Hill, however are the girls going to study men? Out of text-books?

Who's going to write the book—and where, oh where, are you going to find a teacher who will know exactly how to conduct such a class?

If she has studied men to advantage—how will she come to be a teacher in a girls' college, or in a co-educational college, either, for that matter?

"Study men"—what men—how study them?

Are they all alike—these men, Miss Hill finds so hard to understand—and so interesting?

There's little Jimmie Jones, for instance. He likes flappers—pretty girls with bobbed hair and jingling straps to their overshoes.

He hates clever girls, or "digs" as he calls them. He wants dimpled little things with roguish eyes and a way with them.

What Men—Where?

Now, how are you going to please Jimmie, no matter how hard you study him—if you happen to be tall and bony, and never even saw a dimple, much less possessed one?

There's Billy Smith—he likes brains—ability, brilliancy. He's bored to death with the "Oh, you're so big and strong—how wonderful you are!" little flapper.

He wants to talk about race preservation and the everlasting whichness of the what, and he wants to talk about these things to a person who can at least pretend to understand them. How can poor little Susan Sweetair ever please Billy, no matter how hard she studies?

Then there's William H. Brown—he goes in for golf and polo and ice-boating. He wants a girl who can tramp 20 miles and call it "rippin' good fun."

He wants a jolly, good-natured, matter-of-fact pal whom he can marry and take with him on a camping trip—can you learn those things out of a book, Miss Hill, and if you do learn them out of a book, will you ever really like them?

"Study men"—what men—where?

Have you never, my dear Miss Hill, heard a man say how much he admired a nice, little domestic woman, who loves home and babies—and then see him leave just exactly such a woman to make violent love to a young person who'd rather die than stay out of the bright lights for two consecutive evenings?

Have you never heard three or four men telling each other how they abhor the modern flapper and how they wish somebody would bring back the old-fashioned girl they read about in books? And when somebody brings the old-fashioned girl to town from some place in the country, and she's pretty and sweet, too, and as good as gold—these same men will let her sit against the wall the whole evening—and never even look once in her direction while they flutter like moths around any candle any feather-headed little flapper chooses to light.

"Study men"—what methods are you going to use to entrap these wary creatures?

Is the "vamp" to be the model?

There's Your Answer.

Fish—tush—Miss Hill, any man of experience will tell you that the "vamp" is all right on the stage—or for an evening's amusement, but when it comes to marriage—out upon her!

The home-and-mother type—look around you, Miss Hill, and behold her sitting at home and being an excellent mother—most of the time, alone, with her children.

"Study men"—who's going to do the studying, and what are they going to learn?

Men don't have to study women to get women to marry them—and I never yet saw a woman who was without any particular drawback who couldn't marry at least half a dozen times, if she wanted to do it.

And whisper—are you so sure that these girls you want to teach are all so very anxious to make a "success of marriage"?

Some of them don't seem to want marriage at all—they find it a bore, apparently, and others appear to look upon marriage as merely a background for all kinds of more or less pleasant activities.

No, no, Miss Hill—it isn't the head that must be educated in this connection.

It is the heart and the character.

When men and women really want to be happy in a real home, nobody will have to do much studying, either of men or of women, to find out the secret of making a success of such an undertaking.

Mary and John, each in love with the other, each kind, each unselfish, each generous, each a little forgiving—there's your answer, and you can't find it between the covers of any book on earth or learn the secret at any college lecture.

Helps for the Mother

By Emilie Hoffman

AFTER a child has reached the age of 3 years a cold sponge bath should be given every morning. Have a little warm water in the bathtub, let the child stand in this and with a large sponge squeeze the cold water two or three times over the body, beginning at back of neck and letting it fall over the chest and shoulders and down the back. The water should be from 50 to 60 degrees F. For children under 3 years the water should be more moderate, say from 65 to 70 degrees. The sponge bath should be given very rapidly and be followed by a vigorous rubbing with a towel until the skin is aglow. This is an excellent preventive against colds.

Evidently this child has an intense aversion toward oatmeal. Would it not be wiser to vary the cereal each morning, and perhaps serve the oatmeal (in smaller portions) once or even twice a week, if she considers this particular cereal essential to the child's welfare? If served in this way it may be eaten without protest—if a little kind persuasion is used.

It is not advisable to call the attention of the child to the fact that any food is omitted simply on account of his dislikes. This would soon establish a bad habit, but when any food is really repellent to a child it should not be served. There are ample substitutes for most kinds of foods.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

The Falling Out of Two Old Friends.

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

When friends fall out, see to it that a dreadful thing is not done!—Winsome Bluebird.

WINSOME BLUEBIRD had flown over to the dear Old Briar-patch for an early morning call on Peter Rabbit and Mrs. Peter. He arrived just as Peter ordered Johnny Chuck to leave that new home he and Polly Chuck were making at the edge of the Old Briar-patch. It was hard for Winsome to believe what he saw and heard. He was shocked. Yes, sir, Winsome Bluebird was shocked. There were Peter Rabbit and Johnny Chuck quarreling.

For as long as Winsome had known them, Peter Rabbit and Johnny Chuck had been the best of friends. They had been such good friends that it was hard to believe that now they had fallen out and actually were quarreling. But he had to believe it. He had to look back once at Peter Rabbit to know that Peter was very, very angry, and one look at Johnny Chuck's face was enough to make him sure that Johnny was just as angry as Peter.

"Oh, dear," sighed Winsome. "Oh, dear, what a pity! This is dreadful. These silly fellows ought to remember that friendship may be broken easily, but it takes a long time to mend it. I wonder what the trouble is all about."

"You don't dare come out," sneered Peter Rabbit to Johnny Chuck a second time. Johnny didn't reply. That is, he didn't reply with his tongue. He simply jumped out of his doorway so suddenly that to Peter Rabbit it seemed as if he shot out. It so took Peter by surprise that he tumbled over backward in his effort to get out of the way. Of course, he lost his dignity when he did that. He scrambled to his feet and did his very best to look fierce. Even Winsome Bluebird had to chuckle. It was funny, very funny, to see gentle Peter Rabbit trying to look fierce and actually believing that he did look that way.

Johnny Chuck was no longer grinning. "Come on, you long-legged boaster," he snarled. "Come on and drive me away. You don't own this Briar-patch and never did. Polly Chuck and I have just as much right here as you have. We have come over here and we are going to stay, just try driving us out."

Now, Peter knew that Johnny Chuck was right. He knew that Johnny really did have as much right in the dear Old Briar-patch as had he and Mrs. Peter. He knew right down in his heart that he and Mrs. Peter were simply selfish in wanting the Old Briar-patch all to themselves, but he wouldn't admit it. No, sir, he wouldn't admit it.

He jumped over Johnny Chuck and kicked hard with his long hind feet. The kick caught Johnny Chuck by surprise and knocked him over. In an instant he was on his feet again, and no madder Chuck ever lived. The hair stood up along his back and on his neck. His lips were drawn back showing an unpleasantly sharp-looking set of teeth. With the angriest of growls he rushed at Peter. "You'll drive me out, will you?" he snarled. "That's a game two can play at. If the Old Briar-patch isn't big enough for both of us, you are the one who will have to get out."

Peter dodged and Johnny Chuck rushed again. Again Peter dodged. It was surprising how quickly Johnny Chuck could move. You see, he had not yet begun to grow fat. He was still thin and lively on his feet. Peter Rabbit had tried to look fierce, but Johnny Chuck did look fierce. His face was wrinkled in an ugly snarl. His eyes flashed. His teeth snapped together in a way most unpleasant to hear. All desire to fight left Peter. He no longer thought of trying to drive Johnny Chuck away. His one and only thought was to keep out of reach of Johnny Chuck.

"Just to think," said Winsome Bluebird mournfully, "that these two were once friends! Oh, dear, oh, dear, what a pity! What a pity!"

"A ROSE BY ANY OTHER NAME"

A closely contested municipal election in New York the Tammany ticket seemed in grave danger. Accordingly suitable steps were taken. Scarcely had the polls opened when a group of trained and experienced repeaters marched into a downtown voting place.

"What name?" inquired the election clerk of the leader of the squad, who was red-haired and freckled and had a black eye. The young gangster glanced down at a slip of paper in his hand to refresh his memory. "Isadore Mendelheim," he said, then.

"That's not your real name, and you know it," said a suspicious challenger for the reform ticket.

"It is my name," said the repeater, "and I'm going to vote under it—see?"

From down the line came a voice: "Don't let that guy bluff you, Casey. Sottilly your name is Mendelheim!"

WHY BE HAPPY?

The man who does not smoke or chew
Or tamper with the ticker,
Who does not in the dusk pursue
The habits of liquor,
Can live in placid peace of mind.
Few though few joys elate him,
Reforming folks can never find
A way to irritate him.

The man who never swings a club
Twixt Saturday and Monday,
Nor seeks his moral toes to scrub
By playing golf on Sunday,
Well knows, although the fond delights
Of Sabbath breakers fall him,
That no reformers sit up nights
Devising ways to jail him.

The man who would not put a bet
Upon a prancing pony
Who's never made a journey yet
To see the sights at Coney, Aweary of his life may be,
But it is no one's mission
To say, reproachfully, that he
Is headed for perdition.

The man who lives within the laws
Has reason for thanksgiving;
Stern visaged persons have no cause
To mend his way of living.
But though serene should be his lot
It's usually a sad one:
They can't abate a joy he's got
Because he never had one.

3 NEGROES ARE BURNED AT THE STAKE FOR GIRL'S MURDER

Texas Mob Lynches Two After Implication by Third Despite Steadfast Protests of Their Innocence During "Third Degree."

500 MEN TAKE KEYS TO JAIL FROM SHERIFF

First Victim, Arrested on Evidence Given by His Wife, Said to Have Confessed and Named Two Companions.

By the Associated Press.
KIRKIN, Tex., May 6.—Three negroes were burned to death at the same stake here at 5 o'clock this morning by a mob of 500 men following their alleged implication in the criminal assault and murder of 17-year-old Eula Aweley, white girl, whose mutilated body was found near here Thursday night.

"Snap" Curry, the first negro burned, was taken from the custody of Freestone County officers early in the night as he was being conveyed from Wortham to some point west. It is alleged that he confessed to the mob that he had assaulted and murdered the girl and that in his confession he implicated two other negroes, J. H. Varney and Moses Jones.

Take Keys From Sheriff.
The mob divested the sheriff of his keys to the Freestone County jail, where Jones and Varney were being held as suspects. Hurrying to the jail, the mob unlocked the door and took the two negroes in charge. All three negroes were then rushed to Kirkin, the home of the dead girl, and an iron stake driven into the ground on a small square in the heart of the town. Wood was accumulated and saturated with oil to increase its inflammability.

Curry was burned first; then Varney and Jones. There was some delay in burning the last two because they steadfastly maintained their innocence. Third degree methods failed to bring a confession from them and they were finally cremated on the strength of Curry's testimony.

After the third negro had been burned, all three bodies were piled together and a mass of fuel and oil hung over them. This was ignited, the flames soaring 25 or 30 feet in the air. At an early hour today the flames were still burning with oil from the prospect that the bodies would be burned to ashes.

The mob rapidly dispersed and as day dawned there were only a few persons remaining to witness the aftermath of the triple cremation.

Employed by Girl's Grandfather.
The three negroes were employed on the farm of J. T. King, prominent farmer of this community and grandfather of the dead girl, with whom she lived, both her parents being dead. King was present at the cremation and the mob leaders are said to have obtained his approval thereof before lighting the torches.

The lynchings were carried out quietly. There was no discharge of firearms nor was any undue violence attempted, although it is understood the bodies of the negroes were mutilated before being tied to the stake. With the exception of a few shouts and the screams of the condemned men, there was little to disturb the quiet of this backwoods community.

The killings took place on a small open plot directly in front of two small churches. One of the negroes is said to have died singing a church anthem.

Kirkin is a town of about 500 inhabitants situated in Freestone County, East Central Texas, about 80 miles south of Dallas.

'EARTH WAVES' DEMOLISH PART OF CITY IN ITALY

Corato Citizens by Hundreds Again Flee Shift as Undulations Topple Buildings—Relief Funds for Destitute Sent.

By the Associated Press.
ROME, May 6.—Corato, a city in Southern Italy, about 25 miles from Bari, was visited again yesterday by "earth waves," which in the past have caused much damage there. Buildings extending for almost a mile were demolished, and the 50,000 inhabitants are living in fear lest the undulations continue and ruin the entire neighborhood. Three thousand of them, carrying their belongings, are seeking refuge in nearby towns.

The earth waves came just at a time when the Government was considering plans to appoint 9,000,000 lire for the complete rebuilding of Corato so it could withstand these periodic cave-ins.

The Government has dispatched a corps of engineers to the city to organize relief and build barracks for the population until the undulations cease. A large number of the homeless are now crowding into churches and schools which were not affected. The entire water service was ruined and firemen have been detailed with pumps to arrange a temporary water supply.

Three hundred thousand lire have been dispatched by the Government to aid in feeding and clothing the destitute.

Corato is situated over a subterranean body of water, the currents of which cause the terrain to shift occasionally. The Government's plan is to drain this water, rebuild a number of houses and change the streets so as to prevent the possibility of further damage from cave-ins.

The present disturbance ruined more than a third of the city, while the remainder is in constant danger of destruction.

College Marshal Kills Professor and Himself

Employee of South Carolina University Fires on Engineering Teacher After Threatening President.

By the Associated Press.
COLUMBIA, S. C., May 6.—After threatening to shoot Dr. W. S. Currell, president of the University of South Carolina, Ben Hale, university marshal, today shot and killed Prof. M. Goodie Homes of the faculty of school of engineering and then shot himself to death.

The shooting occurred in the university treasurer's office in the presence of President Currell, who, after the shooting, issued a statement saying that for a long time there had been bitter feeling between Prof. Homes and Marshal Hale, growing out of their conflicting duties at the university.

President Currell said that Marshal Hale, enraged, asked a stenographer present to leave, began shooting indiscriminately about the treasurer's office and then shouting, "You are responsible for this," pointing his pistol at the head of the president. Hale, however, a minute later turned his gun on Prof. Homes and shot him and then shot himself.

Prof. Homes was known as an engineering authority. Hale, before he killed himself, was said to have been heard to say that he would kill others connected with the university. It is understood a matter regarding construction work over which the two men had disagreed, had been before a faculty meeting recently. Its nature was not disclosed.

Prof. Homes was born in Boynton, Va. and was graduated from the University of Virginia. He was assistant to the engineer of the increase of water supply at West Point, and during the Spanish-American war was assistant engineer for the Republic of Cuba. He was special agent for the United States office of public roads from 1910 to 1913, and during the recent war was with the Big Bend district of the Engineering Corps in Texas.

REED AT MOBERLY TELLS WHY HE OPPOSED WILSON

United States Senator Opens Campaign for Re-Election—1200 on Special Trains From Kansas City.

CALLS ATTENTION TO ACTS HE SUPPORTED

Band Concerts and Parades by His Supporters Precede Senator's Speech Before Large Crowd.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
MOBERLY, Mo., May 6.—United States Senator James A. Reed this afternoon opened his campaign for re-election to United States Senator, for which Breckinridge Long of St. Louis as the Wilson candidate, is seeking to defeat him. The opposition to Reed is that in opposing many administration measures of the Wilson program before and during the war, he forfeited claim to consideration in a Democratic primary.

The meeting was the first large gathering of the primary campaign. Special trains from Kansas City, Mo., and other points, brought about 1200 men, women and children from Kansas City and intermediate towns. They had bands and had a parade through the business streets.

Reed's speech was devoted largely to an explanation of his reasons for opposition to those Wilson measures which he had fought, and to calling attention to the Wilson measures he supported.

Mrs. George W. Welch of Kansas City presented to Mrs. Reed a large bouquet of flowers. She said Reed had the love and support of the women present.

Mrs. Reed refused to accede to repeated calls for a speech. United States Marshal John E. Lynch answered that Mrs. Reed said she would "let her husband speak for her."

At the opening of the meeting the tent, which had a seating capacity of nearly 5000, was filled and several hundred persons were gathered around the sides of the tent.

The tent was equipped with radio to broadcast the speech. Greeted by Prolonged Cheering, Senator Reed was greeted with prolonged cheering and waving of flags when he climbed onto the speaker's platform. All persons entering the tent had been provided with flags.

The crowd played "The Star Spangled Banner," and the crowd sang, being led by Ed Keating of Moberly.

The Rev. J. W. Duval of the Moberly Presbyterian Church, opened the meeting with prayer.

THIRSTY TEXANS TRY TO BUY LIQUOR FROM W. J. BRYAN

By the Associated Press.
SAN ANTONIO, Tex., May 6.—William Jennings Bryan, strong advocate of prohibition, spent the early morning hours of his visit to San Antonio turning away callers at his room in a local hotel, who had heard the occupant "had real stuff for sale."

The first stranger knocked at the door at 5 o'clock. "I've been out all night on a party," said the thirsty one, "and my supply ran out. I heard a gentleman in this room could fix me up."

The commoner informed his caller that such was far from the true state of affairs and that personally he was against the stuff in any form.

He was no more back in bed when another thirsty one knocked. He had heard, it appears, that he could fill his flask there. He was likewise turned down.

After the thirteenth prospective customer had been turned away Mr. Bryan began to wonder if Texas was exempted from the Volstead act. He made known his complaints to the hotel clerk. He found that he had slipped into a state of stupor and stopped for a while at a hotel where a big convention was being held and among those visiting were a large number of his friends. Mr. Bryan took the joke good naturedly.

He and Mrs. Bryan are en route to California by automobile for her health.

Mrs. Bryan Reported Ill.
SAN ANTONIO, Tex., May 6.—Mrs. William Jennings Bryan is seriously ill here at the home of friends, it was learned today. Bryan arrived here Thursday night with Mrs. Bryan on an automobile trip to California from Florida. It was announced that plans for the remainder of the motor trip had been abandoned.

The match would be held the day before the Grand Prix race, scheduled for June 24. Dempsey told the correspondents he would do nothing regarding either offer until he heard from the result of negotiations now in progress between Jack Kearns, his manager, and British promoters for Carpentier in London.

Lewis Verande, representing a group of French financiers, made the offer to Dempsey. He also offered the champion $10,000 a week to sign a six weeks' contract to appear in the largest music halls in Paris.

Grand Jury to Scrutinize Bill for Chicago School Repair Work.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, May 6.—A million-dollar payroll covering painting and carpenter repair work at Chicago school buildings was to come under the scrutiny of the grand jury today following a raid on the board headquarters yesterday. The payroll board, another step in the school board investigation which yesterday resulted in true bills being voted by the Grand Jury against William A. Bither, attorney for the board, and H. F. Kaup, real estate dealer.

Police Sergeants from the State's Attorney's office attempted this morning to raid the office of the real estate dealer, who the Chicago Supply Co., declared to be a "dummy" concern from which supplies for the school board have been purchased. Admission to the companies' office was refused, however, because the address on the subpoenas was incorrect. Another concern raided was the Charles Wilkins Electric Co., where records were seized.

COMMITTEE MAY LET NOMINATION SLEEP

President Then Could Give Recess Appointment—Spencer Blamed by Republican Colleagues.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 6.—Senate Republican leaders today said that they had made an informal canvass of Senate sentiment on the nomination of Nat Goldstein to be internal Revenue collector at St. Louis, under attack because he accepted $2500 from the Lowden presidential campaign managers, and had assurances of sufficient votes, including Democrats, to defeat the nomination.

By CHARLES G. ROSS, Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, May 6.—Senators who swallowed the Newberian campaign were straining hard today at Nat. Said one of them, the leader on the Republican side, as he left the chamber last night after listening to a biting arraignment of the Goldstein nomination by Senator Pat Harrison:

"I don't think Goldstein will be confirmed."

He expressed a growing belief. "The Old Guard in the Senate is frankly afraid of the effect that confirmation of Circuit Clerk Nat Goldstein as collector of Internal Revenue at St. Louis would have on public opinion. Senators' spouses are being invited to the White House to see the Goldstein nomination by Senator Pat Harrison."

HENRY P. DAVISON, FINANCIER, DES ON OPERATING TABLE

MEMBER OF J. P. MORGAN FIRM WHO IS DEAD AT LONG ISLAND HOME

Man Made Famous Through Red Cross Executive Work in France Succumbs When Undergoing Second Surgical Ordeal at His Home.

J. P. MORGAN THERE TO AWAIT OUTCOME

Patient Apparently in Good Spirits When Placed on Table, but Gave Directions for Unostentatious Funeral.

NEW YORK, May 6.—Henry P. Davison of J.P. Morgan & Co. died on the operating table today.

This announcement was made at 3 o'clock at the Morgan offices. Mr. Davison died about 1:30 p. m. Dr. Charles A. Elsberg, who relieved the pressure of a tumor from Mr. Davison's brain last August, was performing a second operation at the Davison home, Peacock Point, near Glen Cove, when death occurred. Three surgeons were assisting in the operation.

Mr. Davison was placed on the table to remove a tumor resting on the auditory nerve. The operation was performed in a special room fitted up in his country home. Five members of the Morgan firm, keeping vigil at the offices in Wall street, received first news of his death over a special telegraph wire.

Mr. Davison was under the influence of ether when the operation was performed. Only the doctors and the nurses were in the room with him. Members of his family and intimate friends, including J. P. Morgan, were in the house awaiting word from the surgeons.

Intimate friends of Mr. Davison said that he had taken no formal farewell of his family. He apparently was in buoyant spirits when he was carried into the operating chamber; but it was evident that he realized the seriousness of his condition, for he expressed two wishes before the ether cone was applied. One was that he be laid to rest in Locust Valley. The second was that his funeral be as unostentatious as possible.

All morning a steady stream of automobiles containing friends and doctors rolled up the driveway, but after noon no machines were allowed to enter the estate.

Immediately after the news that Mr. Davison was dead had been received, the offices of the Morgan company were darkened. The five partners at the offices were William H. Porter, Dwight W. Morrow, E. R. Stettinius, George Whitney and Elliott B. Ranson.

A short time before news of the death came reports had been circulated in Wall street that Mr. Davison had passed successfully through the ordeal and was expected to recover.

A few minutes after the flash of Mr. Davison's death reached the Morgan offices the following statement, presumably dictated by one of the physicians but unsigned, was issued:

"Mr. Henry P. Davison died shortly after the conclusion of an operation on an infiltrating tumor of the brain, which could only be partially removed."

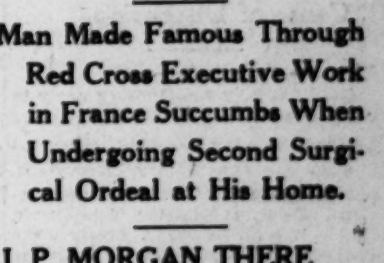

Sketch of Career of Henry P. Davison, Noted Financier.
A notable financier, Henry Pomeroy Davison will best be remembered, perhaps, as the man who at President Wilson's request directed the work of the American Red Cross in allied countries for the two years the United States was at war with the Central Powers. Taken out of the hurly-burly of Wall street, one of the most active of the 15 partners in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., the man who 28 years before had walked the streets of New York looking for a job directed the first "drive" of the American Red Cross for funds, raised $114,486,000, and within a few weeks had Red Cross workers at their tasks in Italy, Belgium and Switzerland as well as in war-torn France.

H. P. Davison was one of the most trusted lieutenants of the elder J. Pierpont Morgan, who commissioned him to represent the firm in numerous financial negotiations abroad. He made many trips to London, Paris and Berlin. He made a study of the

YOUTH SENTENCED TO 15 YEARS FOR HOLDUP OF BANK

William Foley, 19, Found Guilty of Participation in Robbery of Pine Lawn Bank Jan. 26.

A sentence of 15 years in the penitentiary was imposed today upon William Foley, 19 years old, 6137 Ridge avenue, by a jury in Judge Wurdeman's court in Clayton which found him guilty of participation in the robbery of the Pine Lawn Bank, St. Louis County, last Jan. 26, when $2210 was taken. The trial began yesterday.

The State sprung a surprise at the beginning of the trial when Leo Tighe, 22 years old, 1528 Wellston place, one of the two others indicted in the robbery, took the stand as the principal witness for the prosecution. Tighe told in detail how he, Foley and Arthur Smith, 21, of 6210 Lenox place, who also is indicted, stole an automobile in St. Louis, drove to the bank and held up two employees, escaping with $2210.

Smith stayed at the wheel in the automobile and Foley and he went inside, Tighe testified. John B. Elliott, the cashier, and William E. Ott, the bookkeeper, were made to lie on the floor while Tighe and Foley gathered up the money, the witness stated. They then drove to a cemetery on the St. Charles Road, abandoned the machine, walked back to Wellston and divided the money, according to Tighe's testimony.

Otto and Elliott were unable to identify Foley. They said the men who came into the bank had handskerchiefs over their faces and they could not see their features. Mrs. Mary Kalkenberger, 6142 Asbury place, identified Foley as one of the men she saw enter the bank at the time of the robbery. She said she saw Tighe and Foley walk up and down in front of the bank several times the Saturday before the robbery occurred.

Foley, testifying in his own defense, denied acquaintance with Tighe and declared that he signed a paper, the contents of which he did not know, in the Page boulevard police station in St. Louis after he had been beaten with a rubber hose and knocked down.

WILSON FUND CONTRIBUTION NOT EXEMPT, MELLON AGREES

Secretary Says, However, He Is Willing to Postpone Ruling Until Change Is Made to Permit Privilege.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 6.—Secretary Mellon today informed Senator Glass of Virginia, by letter, that the Treasury, upon reconsideration, had reached the same conclusion as held by Commissioner Vlair, that contributions to the Woodrow Wilson Foundation were not exempt from Federal income tax.

The Treasury Secretary added, however, that he would be glad to hold the matter in abeyance and postpone formal ruling until the Wilson Foundation might reorganize to permit exemptions under the law.

"A ROSE BY ANY OTHER NAME"

A T a closely contested municipal election in New York the Tammany ticket seemed in grave danger. Accordingly suitable steps were taken. Scarcely had the polls opened when a group of trained and experienced repeaters marched into a downtown voting place.

"What name?" inquired the election clerk of the leader of the squad, who was red-haired and freckled and had a black eye. The young gangster glanced down at a slip of paper in his hand to refresh his memory. "Isadore Mendelheim," he said, then.

"That's not your real name, and you know it," said a suspicious challenger for the reform ticket.

"It is me name," said the repeater, "and I'm going to vote under it—see?"

From down the line came a voice:

"Don't let that guy bluff you, Casey. Sottilly your name is Mendelheim!"

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

WHY BE HAPPY?

The man who does not smoke or chew
Or tamper with the tucker;
Who does not in the dusk pursue
The habits of liquor,
Can live in placid peace of mind.
For though few joys elate him,
Reforming folks can never find
A way to irritate him.

The man who never swings a club
Twice Saturday and Monday,
Nor seeks his moral toes to stub
By playing golf on Sunday,
Well knows, although the fond delights
Of Sabbath breakers fall him,
That no reformer sits up nights
Devising ways to jail him.

The man who would not put a bet
Upon a prancing pony
Who's never made a journey yet
To see the sights at Coney, Aweary of his life may be,
But it is no one's mission
To say, reproachfully, that he
Is headed for perdition.

The man who lives within the laws
Has reason for thanksgiving;
Stern visaged persons have no cause
To mend his way of living.
But though serene should be his lot
It's usually a sad one:
They can't abate a joy he's got
Because he never had one.
